

GREATEST CROWD AT NEW SALEM

KIDNAPED BY SMUGGLERS IS LINCOLN TALE

Aurora Lawyer and Horticulturist, Missing for Some-time, Returns Home

TELLS OF DOPE RINGS

Blames Wife for Part in The Steps Leading up to His Disappearance

Aurora, Ill., June 13.—Warren J. Lincoln, Aurora lawyer and horticulturist, disappeared from his home near here April 29 under conditions pointing to murder, returned here yesterday with Sheriff W. E. Orr and told a story of kidnapping, dope rings and smuggling that led from Chicago to New York City.

His wife, against whom Lincoln had instituted divorce proceedings, had a leading part in his kidnapping, according to Lincoln's story. Mrs. Lincoln is missing.

"When I denied this three weeks before he disappeared, according to the story Lincoln told Sheriff Orr, two strangers had been shadowing him. About a week before he was kidnapped, he said, two men stepped from behind boxes in his greenhouse and told him they were revenue men and wanted him to give them money. "When I denied this they took several packages from the wall of the greenhouse which I had never seen before and said they contained 'dope,'" Lincoln said. "Then they said if I would give them money they would let me off and, thinking that I could gain time so that I could have them arrested, I said I would pay them."

"Finally I determined to have them arrested, and the Sunday night I disappeared I talked to Captain Grass in Aurora about them. I was hardly asleep when I heard a noise. I investigated and was attacked."

"When I came to I was lying on a flower bed in the greenhouse and my wife was with me, her blood from my nose. They took me to an automobile and started towards Geneva, Illinois."

Taken to Chicago

After traveling for hours, Lincoln said during which he heard heavy traffic and judged he was in Chicago, he walked down several steps into a basement apartment. He was held prisoner in this apartment for more than three weeks, he said, his wife visiting him every day.

He judged from what he heard and observed, Lincoln said, that the apartment was the headquarters of a drug ring. Later a man asked him if he didn't want to become one of their men.

Seeing an opportunity to escape, Lincoln said he agreed.

They purchased tickets to Baltimore, Lincoln said, but when they arrived at Buffalo he managed to escape while the man was dozing.

"He made his way on to New York City, where he found friends and wrote his brother Edward Lincoln, in Aurora, for funds to return home. Sheriff Orr is checking the details of Lincoln's story with the various agencies and has declared that the case will not be dropped yet."

AID IS ASKED BY SCHNEIDER

Wants Burleigh County To Pay Witness Fees, Mileage

Valley City, N. D., June 13.—Although Judge Engert sat in the Schneider murder trial at the state judge A. T. Cole will preside over it from now on. By agreement the jury was impeached under Judge Engert pending the arrival of Judge Cole.

The defendant filed affidavits that he is indigent and unable to pay his witness fees, and has asked the court to order his witnesses paid by Burleigh county. There are 19 witnesses named, the payment of their fees and mileage amounting to over $400.

Witnesses named by the defense were: John L. Schneider, Napoleon; Matt Senger, Mike Morbeck, Joseph Braslow, Joseph Pettich; E. C. White, G. C. Waechter, Frank Senger, Wm. Ode, Mrs. Frances Schaefer, Mrs. John Volk, Julius Jinet, John Roberts, Frank Marks, W. Fred Meske, John Grunsteiner, all of Bismarck and Bernhard Meler, Napoleon.

The state filed affidavits relating the application of the defendant alleging that many of these witnesses are not material witnesses and that Schneider can afford to summon and pay his own witnesses and their expenses.

LAWYER'S DREAM BRINGS ROTARY TO 26 COUNTRIES

By NEA Service
St. Louis, June 13.—A Chicago lawyer, with humanitarian impulses, called three of his friends into conference with him at his office one wintry night.

Before them he unfolded a vision that haunted him night and day—a vision of a happier and better world.

People, he told them, needed some doctrine of service making dynamic the static, ethical principle of the Golden Rule.

Why not help him draft such a philosophy? Why not pledge themselves to abide by it in their different walks of life?

Would they help him? They did.

One of the three was a coal dealer, another a mining operator, and the third a merchant tailor.

That was 18 years ago—Feb. 23, 1905. The men went out and interested others in their creed.

And that was the beginning of Rotary.

Idea Spreads

They called it "Rotary" because in those early days members met in rotation in their offices and shops.

Three years later, the idea spread to San Francisco. Then the germ descended in other parts of the country. The "National Association" was formed in 1910.

And today it's Rotary International. It's the organization with which all Rotary clubs throughout the world are affiliated. It's an organization of 1450 subsidiary clubs, with approximately 90,000 members in 26 countries.

Delegates from all these nations are gathering in St. Louis for their annual world meeting, June 18-22. From all parts of the globe they're coming.

The lawyer-founder of Rotary is Paul P. Harris, professor emeritus of Princeton University. Born in Vermont, he went west after leaving Princeton University. He was admitted to the bar in Iowa in 1891. But he wasn't ready to start practice there.

For five years he worked nearly all over the world. He was a reporter on daily papers in San Francisco and Denver, and rode the range in the cow country. Then he picked oranges in southern Louisiana, sold marble and granite, crossed the Atlantic twice on cattle ships and made a third trip to Europe later.

In 1896 he hung out his shingle in Chicago. He had neither relatives nor friends there. But he considered Chicago the city of destiny—the city wherein many social and industrial problems could be solved.

Many Sockers

Harris was led the leading light at the convention.

Other conspicuous figures will include Raymond M. Havens, Kansas City, Mo., retiring president, Rotary International; Frank Eastman, Perth, Scotland, president Rotary International Association for Great Britain and Ireland; Chesley R. Perry, Chicago, secretary of Rotary International; Anton Verkade, president, Rotary Club, Amsterdam, Holland; Patterson Dayton, O., vice president Rotary International, and former Premier Arthur Meighen of Canada.

Broadening the scope of its boys' work will be one of the most important questions Rotary will face at this year's sessions.

The Rotarians, since entering this field have erected gymnasiums and clubhouses for the youths of many cities, sponsored Boy Scout troops, looked after the newsies' interests and labored among the luckless lads hailed before the juvenile courts.

DENIES PIKE WAS EMPLOYED

Denial that F. A. Pike, St. Paul attorney, has any money at all coming from the state industrial commission is made in a supplemental answer by John Thorpe, first assistant attorney-general, in the suit pending in the district court at St. Paul. Pike claimed several thousand dollars because of services to the commission in the "42 taxpayers" case.

1923 LAW TO APPLY ON ALL VALUATIONS

Tax Commissioner Issues Letter of Instruction to County Auditors of N. D.

EXERCISE POWERS

County auditors in the state are directed by Tax Commissioner C. G. Converse to make up all final valuations for 1923 on the basis of the 75 per cent valuation law of the 1923 legislature, effective July 1, in a letter dispatched to them today.

The advice follows a letter written several weeks ago concerning a situation arising from the discovery in the office of the Secretary of State that two of the new laws which purported to carry emergency clauses, did not receive sufficient votes to make the emergency clause effective.

"Certain provisions of these new laws affect the duties of county auditors and other officials subsequent to July 1, and the question was thus raised as to whether, after July 1, it is the duty of such officials to administer these laws as an extension of the 1923 law," Mr. Converse explained, adding that inevitable differences of opinion concerning legal questions made it necessary for him to exercise the supervisory powers delegated in the laws of 1919.

"Therefore," he said, "as tax commissioner, I hereby advise and direct county auditors, in making up the final valuations for the taxable valuation of 1923, to compute the taxable valuation of all taxable property at 75 per cent of its full value, and to compute and extend taxes upon the basis thus determined, and not to allow the exemption which has heretofore been allowed of $500 on farm machinery, $300 on household goods, $300 on wearing apparel and $300 on tools of mechanics. In short, allow no exemptions except the exemption of farm buildings and other property which is by law made absolutely exempt, and extend taxes upon the basis of 75 per cent of full value."

ROMANCE OF SENATOR TOLD

Richard Pettigrew, South Dakotan and Widow Marry

Chicago, June 13.—The secret romance marriage and honeymoon of a former United States Senator from South Dakota and a widow 27 years his junior became known yesterday because as his bride explained, "he asked too much and surprised too much." The former senator is Richard Pettigrew, 75, of Sioux Falls. His wife formerly was Mrs. Roberts Smith of Chicago.

When they decided to marry last February they slipped away to New York and went to Egypt on their honeymoon, returning only recently.

Senator Pettigrew returned to Sioux Falls and Mrs. Pettigrew opened her home here.

Surmises of friends yesterday led Mrs. Pettigrew to announce the marriage.

"So long as they are talking so much I guess we may as well tell it," she said.

"Why did you wish to keep it secret?" she was asked.

"For personal reasons," said the senator's bride.

The former senator went to Sioux Falls to practice law early in the '70's. He is the author of "Imperial Washington," a widely discussed political book.

GOVERNOR TO MINOT TODAY

Governor Newton, returning to his office from the Flasher dairy circuit tour, was to go to Minot this afternoon, where he will address the retail merchants' association and deliver the graduation address at the Minot State Normal tomorrow. He will go to Devils Lake from Minot to visit the National Guard camp and then attend the National Wheat Conference in Chicago June 19 and 20.

INCOME TAX TOTAL LARGER

Individual Returns in North Dakota Show Decrease

Total income tax collections of the state for the year 1922 will more than double the previous year's collections, state tax officials believe.

Corporation payments show a big increase while individual payments are less. Corporation income tax certified for collection amounts to $237,694.44 and individual taxes $28,331.43 as compared to $113,517.14 corporation and $32,289.41 individual for the previous year, it is announced at the tax commissioner's office.

In addition a large amount of corporation taxes, approximately $75,000, is in dispute with some large corporations doing an interstate business.

THE WEATHER

For Bismarck and vicinity: Unsettled weather with probably showers tonight or Thursday. Warmer tonight; cooler Thursday.

For North Dakota: Unsettled weather with probably showers tonight or Thursday. Warmer southern portion tonight, cooler Thursday.

General Weather Conditions

An area of low pressure is centered over the northeastern Rocky Mountain slope this morning and precipitation occurred along the southeastern Rocky Mountain slope and from the northwestern Rocky Mountain region to the north Pacific coast. Precipitation also fell over the upper Mississippi Valley. Temperatures have risen over the Rocky Mountain region, but elsewhere changes have been slight.

North Dakota Corn and Wheat Region Summary

For the week ending June 12, 1923

The weather during the week was mostly cloudy and cool and generally favorable for farm work and development of crops but more rain is needed for best results in many sections. Spring rye is heading in a short generally and is only a fair crop. Spring wheat, oats and barley are excellent. Corn is growing rapidly and is mostly clean. Flax seeding is nearly completed and the early sown is up to good stand. Pastures, ranges and meadows are good, but rain is needed in some sections. Roads are generally good. Corn and Wheat.

GERMANS PLAN TO TERRORIZE, FRENCH CLAIM

Guerilla Warfare Carried On, High Officers Slated for Assassination

CURFEW IS ENFORCED

French Prohibit Movement On Streets in One Town After 8 o'clock at Night

Recklinghausen, Germany, June 12.—Two Germans were shot and killed by French patrols late yesterday. The troops were endeavoring to keep the population of the streets after the curfew law.

Dusseldorf, June 13.—An "organized reign of terror" in the form of guerilla warfare is being carried on against the occupying forces in the Ruhr, according to French military authorities today. The French military forces consider this a campaign of revenge by the Nationalists for the execution of the ex-German officer Albert Schlegel for sabotage. General Degoutte and other high army officers are slated for assassination, the military secret service reports declare.

Special precautions have been taken to protect these officers from night attacks.

A shot was fired last night through the window of a villa at Recklinghausen occupied by a French officer. The missile struck no one. Shots also were fired during the night at French soldiers at Wolfen and Wanne.

The French have taken drastic measures to curb this wave of terrorism. Two of the principal police officers at Recklinghausen were arrested as hostages today because of the killing of two French soldiers Monday night. The population is forbidden to go on the streets after 9 o'clock at night in a score of cities in the Ruhr.

In Recklinghausen the stores must be closed and lights put out at 8 p. m.

CLASHES RESULT

The prohibition of movement on the part of the population after the curfew hour resulted in several clashes between civilians and French patrols. Shots were fired in a number of cases. The Germans assert two German civilians were killed but the French assert there was only one fatality.

A report current in Germany is that the non-commissioned officers at Dortmund last Saturday night actually shot each other because of a love affair. It is said that many Dortmund inhabitants who were away on week-end outings and consequently knew nothing of curfew regulations were fired on when they returned to the city. The bodies of some of the Germans killed in these shootings are alleged to have been taken by the troops and placed near the spot where the soldiers were found dead.

DEATH PENALTY IMPOSED

Mayer, Germany, June 13.—The death penalty has been imposed by a French court-martial upon the German engineer George of the Baden Aniline and Soda Works at Ludwigshaven charged with sabotage. The French authorities said he confessed.

FLOODS RAGE IN OIL CITY IN OKLAHOMA

Thousands Are Made Homeless as City Is Flooded One Death Reported

MENACE IS GROWING

City Without Fire Protection As Water Works System Is Flooded

Tulsa, Okla., June 13.—The Arkansas River touched a point of 19.8 feet above normal today and is expected to continue its rise for 26 hours.

Tulsa, Okla., June 13.—Flood waters of the Arkansas River fastened their hold on Tulsa and vicinity early today after a rain of death and destruction through southern Kansas. With the stream still coming up the most disastrous flood in the history of the city has been recorded.

The city waterworks plant was forced to close down at 1:30 o'clock this morning leaving Tulsa virtually unprotected against fire. The water covered west Tulsa where some of the biggest oil refineries in the country are located.

Between 3,000 and 4,000 persons have been made homeless between Tulsa and Sand Springs. It is estimated that 4,000 persons have been driven out of West Tulsa. The refugees are being cared for here and in Sand Springs.

Only one death has been reported as the result of the flood, a negro being killed yesterday when he dived from a bridge and struck his head on a sharp object.

CREST PASSES

Tulsa, Oklahoma, June 13.—(By the Associated Press)—The crest of the Arkansas river invasion of West Tulsa and Sand Springs where flood waters are sweeping along more than 19 feet above normal apparently passed this morning when the river dropped a foot.

BOYS, GIRLS TO SEE DIRECTOR OF CITY BAND

L. C. Sorlein Will Hold First Meeting with Applicants On Thursday Evening

Plans are being formulated to begin organization of the Bismarck Juvenile band committee. L. C. Sorlein, band manager, has arranged and will hold his first conference with applicants and members of the executive committee at the Will school tomorrow evening at 8 p. m.

All boys and girls who desire to join the band and receive free instruction are requested to report promptly at 8 p. m. Thursday evening with their instruments. Those who have no instruments will confer with Mr. Sorlein before making any choice.

It is hoped that all who have registered and as many others as possible will report at the Will school. Mr. Sorlein has had considerable band experience and is enthusiastic over the outlook here.

As many girls as possible are urged to enlist in the band so that in time a separate boys and girls organization can be formed.

It is likely that Mr. Sorlein will devote all his time to the band until school starts when he is to devote a portion of his time to teaching subjects in the High School.

Major Stanley Washburn, president of the North Dakota Lignite Coal Operators' Association, will speak both on lignite possibilities and upon foreign affairs as he observed them.

Dr. V. K. Stickney of Dickinson, pioneer physician of the Roosevelt Days in the "Bad Lands," will speak of the stirring early days of Medora.

FARGO SETTLES WITH BUREAU

The Workmen's Compensation Bureau and City of Fargo have agreed that if the city of Fargo confuses judgment on suit for compensation premiums from September 5, 1922, the bureau will assume all liabilities of the city since that time. This would bring firemen injured several weeks ago in Fargo under the benefits of the compensation act, according to members of the bureau who announced the settlement. August Hanson, city commissioner, and City Auditor Watkins of Fargo conferred with members of the bureau in the matter.

BULGARIA IS MOBILIZING; PROTEST MADE

Serbian Ministers Notify Government That Treaty Terms Are Exceeded

FEAR HER STRENGTH

Believe She Will Try to Overturn Treaty When Full Strength Is Given

Belgrade, June 13.—Dispatches to Jugo-Slav newspapers today report the existence of a state of civil war throughout the greater part of Bulgaria.

Former cabinet ministers Obloff and Douparinoff are said to have been killed during an engagement with revolutionary forces.

London, June 13.—The Serbian ministers in the cabinet capitals have called the attention of the government to information received in Belgrade to the effect that the new Bulgarian government was mobilizing forces in excess of the stipulation of the treaty of Neuilly, says a diplomatic correspondent.

The correspondent adds that if Bulgaria does not soon cease mobilizing a warning—probably a joint one from Serbia, Roumania and Greece—will be sent to Sofia from Belgrade. The little entente countries fear the new king in Sofia when it has overcome the menace of the peasant resistance will avail itself of its increased military power to challenge the existing treaty.

Serbia, the writer asserts, is now sending strong reinforcements to the Bulgarian-Macedonian frontier where already it has a force.

FLEES TO MOUNTAINS

Sofia, Bulgaria, June 13.—Former Premier S. Zamboulsky, accompanied by a single friend, is reported at this hour fleeing on horseback through the mountains of central Bulgaria in the direction of the city of Pirdop pursued by a squadron of revolutionary horsemen.

Earlier in the day the former head of the Bulgarian government was reported on the run, accompanied by a group of 200 yellow guards, part of them contingents that had been stationed at his home, and pursued by a detachment of troops. Later advice, however, indicated he had been deserted by virtually all his followers.

Several of his adherents who abandoned him and surrendered said that he had shaved his black moustache and otherwise changed his appearance.

The new government troops had an engagement with Zamboulsky's guard last night but the former premier escaped at that time with his band of supporters.

Feeling expressed at the war office here is that Zamboulsky had caused bloodshed and is subject to execution if captured alive.

300 BONUS CLAIMS PAID

Soldier bonus payments of the state have been brought to number 10,359 by the payment completed yesterday of 300 claims, amounting to $72,765.00. Payments virtually will cease during the summer months.

FLASHER TOUR SUCCESS

Flasher, N. D., June 13.—The Flasher dairy circuit tour was a success.

Visitors on the first tour of the circuit included many South Dakota farmers who were visibly impressed with the results obtained by the owners of many fine herds of registered and high grade Holstein cows.

The only disappointment was the failure of Governor W. H. McMaster to join the party. He was expected until the last minute, and through the tour many on it kept on the lookout for him, but he had notified the tour supervisors that he was unable to join the other South Dakotans leaving from McIntosh.

From Carson to Flasher stops were made at the farms of William Vogel, L. A. Haven and Charles Gornor, all members of the circuit. The program of the day followed at Flasher in the afternoon.

Cattle Worth $100,000

The Flasher circuit today has cattle that are valued conservatively at $100,000. The total receipts from sale of milk cream and young surplus stock runs close to $36,000, annually.

Just how it works out is best shown by the statement of Wm. Vogel, one member, who recalled to visitors at his farm that in 1921 his wheat netted him $141 from 180 acres, while his 18 Holsteins netted him $2,718.00 during the year when the crops burned up.

Loses Life in Mouse River

Donnybrook, N. D., June 12.—A. W. Kneiss, superintendent of the Donnybrook schools, lost his life while bathing in the Mouse river at Mouse River park near Tolley yesterday afternoon. The body was recovered about 8:30 o'clock last night. Walter Hault was with Kneiss when he was drowned. Mr. Kneiss was 27 years of age and unmarried. He was a graduate of Grinnell college, Grinnell, Iowa, and had planned to enter Columbia University, New York, this fall for additional work. He was treasurer of the Northwestern North Dakota Education Association. Funeral services will be held at 8:30 p. m. today and the body will be shipped to his home in Flackner, Colorado.

WILLISTON BANK SUSPENDS

Williston, N. D., June 12.—Depleted reserve today was given as the cause for the voluntary closing this morning of the Williams County State Bank of this city. The business of the bank was temporarily suspended by the board of directors. President L. J. Rodman of the institution said this afternoon, to enable officers to bring more capital into the bank. Reorganization work already is under way, Mr. Rodman said, but it is difficult to say at this time whether reopening will be effected and if so not the amount of loss that will be sustained by depositors.

Corn-Fed Russian Waifs Are Living Testimonials to Success of American Relief Administrations Activities

These round-faced, plump cheeked boys and girls are all American-fed salvage from the Russian famine. They come from the Ufa district in the Ural region where last year famine conditions were at the worst. The photograph, taken in March, 1923, in the Central children's home at Sterlitimsk, was recently received by the American Relief Administration from W. L. Bell, the American supervisor of the district. "A year ago," Mr. Bell writes, "these children were sleeping six to eight in a bed, without clothes, without blankets, and many were starving for want of food or freezing for want of fuel. This year they are clothed, warm, fat and happy. The home was supplied with wood collected by adult famine victims who received an American corn ration in return for their labor. Food was furnished for the children by the American Relief Administration, as was also the bedding shown in the picture. The American Relief Administration, of which Herbert Hoover is chairman, is still feeding some 8,000,000 children in Russia and will continue its work at least until the coming harvest in August. The feeding during the past winter has been confined largely to the children's homes and other institutions, although open kitchens have been maintained in some places where

Mrs. Jack Kenyon, 417 Mandan Ave., says: "Several years ago I gave a public recommendation for Doan's Kidney Pills after the benefit one of my family had received. Since then I have had occasion to use them myself for an attack of kidney trouble. I had puffy sacs under my eyes and pains in my back. It was hard for me to do my housework at times. My kidneys acted irregularly, too. Three boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills cured me. I am glad to again recommend Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Kenyon had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. University of South Dakota
Students Punished

Vermillion, S. D., June 12.—Seven University of South Dakota students were denied their diplomas at the commencement exercises yesterday afternoon pending an alleged raid on the girls dormitory where it is alleged seniors stole lingerie of the co-eds later staging a parade downtown garbed in the stolen garments.

Following the action of the board of deans in denying the seniors their diplomas, scores of classmates signed a petition asking the board to reconsider the action.

Playnight At Two Schools

Tonight is playnight at Wachter and Richholt schools. A special invitation has been issued to the ladies of the Community Council and parents of children to come to the playgrounds tonight to watch the play.

In charge of the Wachter school playground is Mrs. Bystrom, assisted by playleaders Helen Will, Mrs. Fox and Ethel Pymston.

In charge of the Richholt school is Mrs. Gorman, Mrs. Wilkinson, Alice Larson, Lucille Fisher and Audrey Flow.

Large groups of children are reported at the playground, but Mrs. King states that many more could be directed.

German Baptists Meet Tonight

There will be a special meeting at the German Baptist Church corner 8th and Rosser Streets. We are fortunate in having with us this evening, The Reverends Umbach, Gieser, Burdett, Kayser and Kraemer, who are stopping in Bismarck on their way to the association of the Northern part of the state, which will be held from June 15-17 at Beulah, N. Dak.

All are specially invited to attend. G. Sprick, Local Pastor.

Here's a Business for Bismarck

GOOD FOR

$4,000 to $12,000 Yearly!

In a North Carolina town of 12,000 Mr. Miller is clearing $1,200 a month net profits. Throughout this country prosperous owners of Electric Maid Bake Shops are making real money, but they find a demand that taxes their output from the very start.

No Previous Experience Needed

With a small investment and a willingness to "dig in" you can own and successfully operate an Electric Maid Bake Shop in your own community. We supply the equipment, experience, and proven methods to succeed.

You enter a stable cash business. Everybody likes the idea of bread and cakes baked by electricity, and they'll go a long way to get it. The bakery business is in the front rank of American industries.

More Examples of What You Can Do

In a Minnesota city Mr. Weber started on borrowed capital. In 1 year he paid for his equipment. He paid up his loan and sold for his own store building; all this out of his profits. Henry Larson in Iowa reports $18,000 sales last year. Mr. Sanders, a man 60 years of age, in a town of 4,500 writes: "My profits have averaged fully $400 a month net to me." In a small South Carolina town of 10,000 Mr. Briggs is showing monthly profits of $500 net.

Write or Wire for Particulars. You owe it to yourself to investigate. This is a rare opportunity you have been waiting for to get into a lifetime paying business.

FLAG DAY THURSDAY, JUNE 14

Anybody can make a flag out of a few bits of silk or bunting. But it has taken the blood of thousands upon thousands, the ideals and faith and devotion of millions upon millions of upward striving men and women to put into the folds of Old Glory the meaning that makes us bare our heads and salute.

By our own devotion to the ideals for which it stands, we can make our flag mean even more to the generations which will follow us.

FLAG DAY OBSERVED BY ROTARIANS

Rev. Ryerson Pays Tribute to American Flag and Rotary

Flag Day was observed today by the Rotarians at their noon luncheon at the McKenzie hotel. In an eloquent address Rev. Joseph Ryerson, rector of St. George's church, sketched the nation's development under the Stars and Stripes. He declared that the flag embodied with it its domain all climates, all latitudes, all longitudes and that it typified the great ideals of the nation.

He declared that the nation of this flag had never in any of her various wars been the aggressor and that each conflict was for principle. He spoke glowingly of the opportunity for advancement in this country and how the flag typifies for all shelter in a nation where freedom of thought is sacred.

Rev. Ryerson paid a high tribute to Rotary and what it is accomplishing throughout the world.

S. E. Bergeson of the June program committee presided at today's luncheon.

Clyde Young gave an account of his recent visit to Washington to attend the National Conference of Social Work. He declared that his impression was that there are too many organizations in the nation many duplicating effort and that probably too much valuable time and money is spent upon conventions that could well be eliminated. He declared, however, that they had a broadening effect upon the delegates and that in the group in which he was interested, twenty-eight separate organizations were represented.

He paid a high tribute to the city plan being followed at the national capital. Mr. Young urged Rotary to get behind a city plan for Bismarck and the abandonment of the present "lean-to" policy. He declared that no city ever grew beautiful without a plan. Now was the time, he said, for this city to adopt a plan if a city beautiful were to be realized in Bismarck.

H. T. Murphy, postmaster, urged the Rotarians to attend the postmasters' convention and especially the meeting arranged with the business men when complaints as to service will be received and suggestions upon how to benefit the service asked.

Bob Simpson biography of Geo. D. Mann.

Guests at the luncheon were: Rev. Ryerson, A. A. Jones, Otis Jones and C. B. Craven of Carrington.

Mr. Otis Jones, a former Bismarck boy, left this city fifteen years ago. He saw considerable military service over seas. He said that he was surprised at the growth of Bismarck.

MACOMBER IS RENAMED HEAD

Continues as President of Coal Company

W. P. Macomber was reelected president and general manager of the Washburn Lignite Coal Company at the annual directors' meeting in Minneapolis yesterday. Stanley Washburn of Lakewood, N. J., was reelected vice-president, while W. H. Keller, Secretary-Treasurer of the company since its organization 20 years ago retired at the age of 78 years. He was succeeded by Jefferson Steiner of Minneapolis. Mr. Macomber and G. W. Stewart, assistant manager, were reelected on the board of directors.

The company enjoyed the biggest year in its history from last August when the strike was settled and mining began to the close of the fiscal year, April 30, mining 275,000 tons of lignite.

Some confusion has arisen as to the postmasters' gatherings in Bismarck this week.

It is announced that on Friday there will be the North Dakota state postal conference and on Saturday it will be merged into the Postmasters' convention.

It is hoped by local postoffice officials that several hundred postmasters will be present.

BOOK BANNED NOT DAKOTAN'S

Prof. West Should be Listed
From Minnesota, Educators Say

Recently a New York City official announced his opposition to retention of certain histories in the New York schools because they were "pro-British and un-American." He included a history by Prof. William Mason West, given as from North Dakota.

Another story has come from Indianapolis where Frank Henley, adjutant of the American Legion, has succeeded in having objectionable books removed from the list of texts of the state, on the ground that the books failed to pay proper regard for the historic acts of Americans during the Revolutionary War.

The book named "A History of the American People" by Prof. West is one of them.

North Dakota educators here say that Prof. West should not be announced as from North Dakota. While he at one time was professor at the University of North Dakota this is said to have been over 20 years ago. After that he went to the University of Minnesota as professor and so far as educators here know, is still there.

The water pressure pump will be run evenings during the dry weather for sprinkling.

Looking Ahead

IN ATTEMPTING to vision the demands for its products, which the next ten years may develop, the Standard Oil Company (Indiana), taking counsel of its long experience, is preparing to care for an enormous increased business when it develops.

In the decade just past the demand for gasoline has increased far beyond the dream of the most imaginative, as viewed from 1913.

In that year there were 1,287,000 automotive vehicles registered in continental United States.

Today, there are more than ten times as many, yet, the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is able to supply the demand for its service now more promptly and with greater efficiency than was possible ten years ago.

The Company has been able to keep up with this great, constantly increasing, demand because it always is working with a keen eye to the future and preparing, so far as is possible, for the extreme demand which may be developed.

During the past ten years the Company has found it necessary to expand its manufacturing facilities to an extraordinary degree; to create and develop processes which would recover a greater amount of gasoline from a given quantity of crude, without in any way sacrificing quality—to expand and perfect a network of distributing outlets which would operate with machine-like precision—bulk storage depots, service stations, delivery trucks and tank wagons.

Not even the remotest spot in the ten Middle Western states is without Standard Oil service.

All of these things have been done. They have been accomplished without any blare of trumpets—just as a part of the day's work.

It is the ambition of the 27,000 men and women who make up the personnel of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) to conduct every department of the Company's activities so that you, as an American citizen, will point with pride to the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) as a leader in a highly specialized branch of an essential industry.

ONE SHOW IS CANCELLED

Leo Dietrichstein Suffers Nervous Breakdown

Leo Dietrichstein, billed to appear at the Auditorium here on June 22 in "The Purple Mask" has cancelled the engagement because of a nervous breakdown.

Manager Vesperman of the Auditorium received word from Seattle, Wash., of the affliction which will cause the cancellation of many of Mr. Dietrichstein's appearances.

There have been some rumors that McIntyre and Heath also would not show here. However, Mr. Vesperman says that the rumors are false. The show is here Saturday night.

FEDERAL AID REQUESTS MADE FOR NEXT YEAR

Many of the Boards of County Commissioners of this state evidently have confidence in the present State Highway Department. This fact is indicated by the number of requests for Federal Aid highway projects for construction in 1924, which have been filed in the office of Walter G. Black, Chief Engineer and Secretary of the State Highway Commission.

After meeting with the County Commissioners of seventeen different counties, A. D. McKinnon, Project Engineer, has secured resolutions from the various County Boards requesting a total of 315 miles of road grading and 42 miles of gravel surfacing to be placed under contract during the coming year. Many of the requests are from counties which had either dropped Federal Aid work during the past two years, or had never undertaken any work under the supervision of the State Highway Commission.

Mr. Black is very gratified at the confidence the various counties have manifested in the Highway Department and every member of his staff is striving to merit this confidence.

NEARLY EVERY COUNTY BANNER IS DISPLAYED

All of this change has come in five or six years. A few farmers experimented in dairy herds previously to 1920, but the general development has come following the organization of the Flasher Holstein Breeders circuit in March, 1920. Eight of the original members now maintain the circuit, but they are giving advice constantly to other farmers of the district while J. K. Swanson, the present official tester and superintendent hired by the eight men also serves the Mandan Holstein and Shorthorn Breeders circuit and many individual farmers of this section of Morton county.

Good Climate Helps

"There is no longer any doubt but what the climate of this section of the state and country is excellently adapted to develop all different types of livestock," said Dr. John Lee Coulter, president of the North Dakota Agricultural college, in an address. "It is neither too hot, nor too cold, in fact, it is nearly ideal. Animals here are probably more free from livestock diseases than the animals in any other part of the country. There is only one real problem (Continued from Page One) for any farmer who desires a profitable type of farming, the problem of the feed supply, and fortunately livestock consumers feed that does not quickly spoil. It can be carried over from season to season, and the farmer of western North Dakota who learns to carry over a surplus of feed in good years, for lean years that may come, has solved his problem."

Nestos Welcomes Party

"North Dakota and South Dakota, especially these western sections, must develop along the same lines and we are delighted to see this interchange of interest and ideas," said Governor Nestos in welcoming the big South Dakota delegation this afternoon. "We are proud of this community and the fine progress it is making. It is the course that practically every community in the state must follow if it is to establish permanent prosperity.

"In view of the fact that capital is scarce it is desirable to make progress slowly and steadily. It would be well therefore to buy registered dairy sires and to build up the herds slowly. It would also probably be well to buy grade cattle, with a few registered females. But this western section of North Dakota can make a sure and steady development in prosperous farming by developing good dairy herds. Flasher and New Salem are proving that."

The governor advocated a pared-down side campaign similar to the one now being carried on in Minnesota.

Example for Others

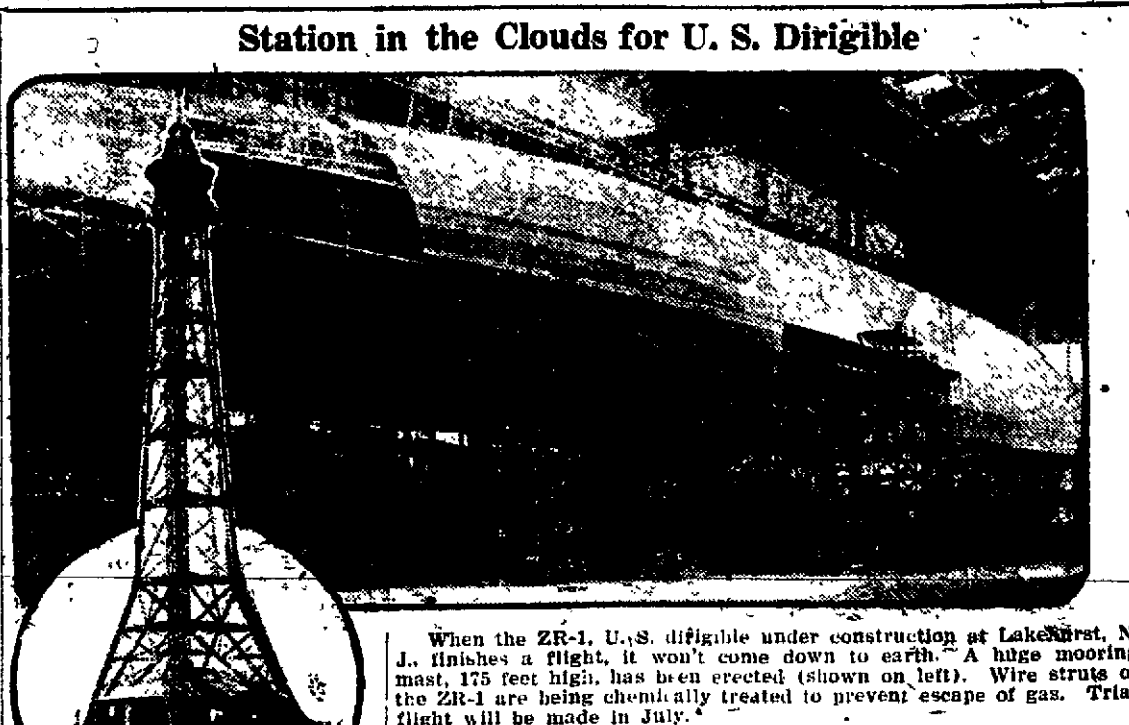

"It took some hard scraping to get cash enough together to get started," said Charles Cotner, president of the Flasher Holstein Breeding circuit. "But we knew that gambling in wheat was the 'bunk.' New Salem did it, there was no reason why we couldn't."

When he outlined how the Flasher dairy circuit, modern farms of which were inspected by fully 6,000 people, was organized originally by 10 men.

Plan Works Well

The day went off smoothly, the arrangements for handling the crowds proving perfect. Groups of automobiles—25 in each group—were so arranged on their tours to the farms that they did not come in contact with each other and at each farm there were talks, explanation of records and practical demonstrations.

In the auto caravan was included 11 carloads of Wells county farmers. There were 70 South Dakota cars,

WRECK OF A RUNAWAY CAR

This one man trolley car ran backwards eight blocks on Amsterdam avenue, New York City, left the rails and crashed into a tenement building, killing a little girl and maiming several others. Three floors of the building walls were wrecked.

BANK'S DEPOSITS OVER $765,000

The Williams County State Bank, which voluntarily suspended yesterday, had deposits of $765,451.23, according to its last published statement on April 3, 1923. The bank figured in the legislature investigation of 1921, when it was charged excessive amounts of funds of the Bank of North Dakota had been placed in "favored" banks. At that time the Bank of North Dakota had $124,145.07 re-deposits and $144,663.72 loans to the bank. It is understood the bank had not been able to reduce these amounts materially.

Invite Bismarck To Playgrounds

THE ELTINGE

"The Good Provider," a Fannie Brady story, featuring Miss Gydron and Dore Davidson, both of whom were striking figures in "Humorsque," comes to the Eltinge Theatre Friday and Saturday. Miriam Batista, another bright light of "Humorsque," is again seen as a little Jewish girl. Others in the fine cast are Vivienne Osborne, William (Buster) Collier, Jr., John Roche, James Devine, Blanche Craig, Ora Jones, Edward Phillips, Muriel Martin and Margaret Severn, the dancer.

Miss Gordon is a native of Russia, where she began her theatrical career in a mother role at the age of twelve. She came to the United States in 1910 and won fame on the Yiddish stage and later on the English speaking stage. She was seen in "The Land of the Free," "Why Worry?" with Fannie Bryce, "The Gentle Wife" and as Mrs. Potash in the London production of "Potash and Perlmutter."

Alice Brady comes to the Eltinge, Thursday in "The Leopardess."

THE CAPITOL

"Brothers Under the Skin," the picture at the Capitol Theatre to night, is one of those light, exceedingly entertaining comedy dramas that come once in an age, and which are always received with delight. This is a Goldwyn picture, quite up at $10,000 a year the other a shipping based upon one of Peter B. Kyne's popular magazine yarns. The story tells of the similar domestic difficulties encountered by two young husbands in widely diverging layers of society—one a general manager, at $40,000 a year, the other a shipping clerk at $30 a week in the same big corporation.

The wives of both are young, beautiful, charming, but luxury-loving and irresponsible. Both keep their husbands in eternal debt and eternally worried.

But there finally comes a last straw at which the two husbands rebel. In no ungente fashion the respective wives are shown the error of their ways. And all, presumably is well thereafter.

"Brothers Under the Skin," has one of those small but distinctive casts that are seen too infrequently. Helene Chadwick, as the shipping clerk's wife, repeats the notably fine performance she gave as the young wife in "Dangerous Curve Ahead." Claire Windsor, whose beauty and acting ability have made her one of the most popular leading women of the screen, appears as Dorothy Kirtland, the other wife. The two husbands are respectively Pat O'Mally and Norman Kerry. Mae Busch is again the vamp in this laugh-a-minute picture, and as usual a fascinating one. The film was directed by E. Mason Hopper, whose gift, light touch was evident throughout. Whether you are a picture fan or not, we unhesitatingly recommend "Brothers Under the Skin."

All of this change has come in five or six years. A few farmers experimented in dairy herds previously to 1920, but the general development has come following the organization of the Flasher Holstein Breeders circuit in March, 1920. Eight of the original members now maintain the circuit, but they are giving advice constantly to other farmers of the district while K. Swanson, the present official tester and superintendent hired by the eight men also serves the Mandan Holstein and Shorthorn Breeders circuit and many individual farmers of this section of Morton county.

Good Climate Helps
There is no longer any doubt but what the climate of this section of the state and country is excellently adapted to develop all different types of livestock," said Dr. John Lee Coulter, president of the North Dakota Agricultural college, in an address. "It is neither too hot, nor too cold, in fact, it is nearly ideal. Animals here are probably more free from livestock diseases than the animals in any other part of the country."

There is only one real problem (Continued from Page One)
for any farmer who desires a profitable type of farming, the problem of the feed supply, and fortunately livestock consumes feed that does not quickly spoil. It can be carried over from season to season, and the farmer of western North Dakota who learns to carry over a surplus of feed in good years, for lean years that, may come, has solved his problem.

Nestos Welcomes Party
"North Dakota and South Dakota, especially these western sections, must develop along the same lines and we are delighted to see this interchange of interest and ideas," said Governor Nestos in welcoming the big South Dakota delegation this afternoon. "We are proud of this community and the fine progress it is making. It is the course that practically every community in the state must follow if it is to establish permanent prosperity."

"In view of the fact that capital is scarce it is desirable to make progress slowly and steadily. It would be well therefore to buy registered dairy sires and to build up the herds slowly. It would also probably be well to buy grade cattle, with a few registered females. But this western section of North Dakota can make a sure and steady development in prosperous farming by developing good dairy herds. Flasher and New Salem are proving that."

The governor advocated a purebred side campaign similar to the one now being carried on in Minnesota.

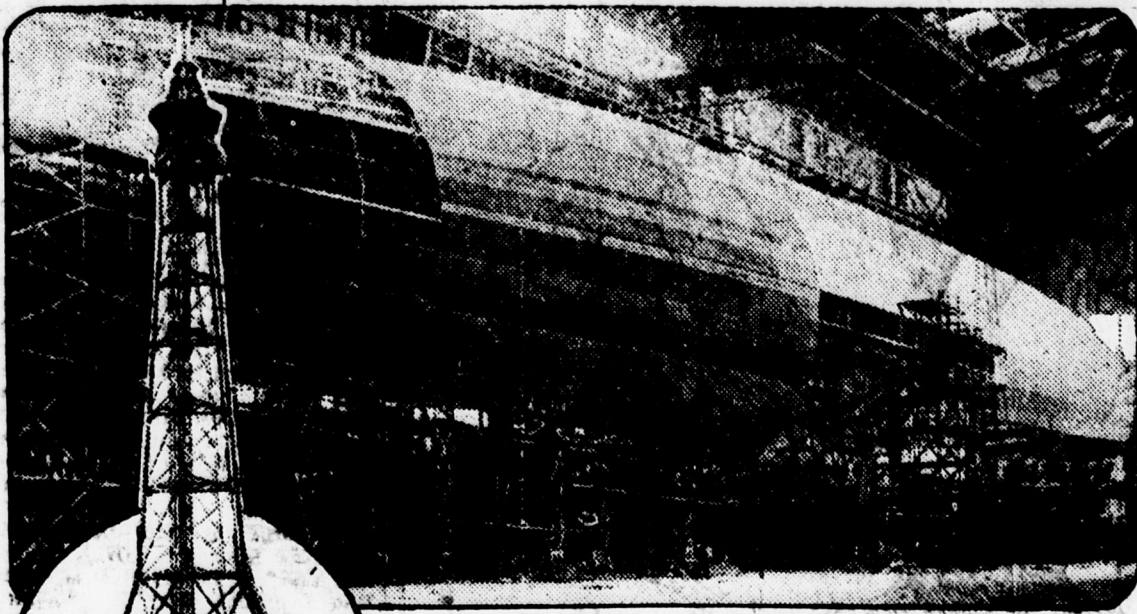

Example for Others
"It took some hard scraping to get cash enough together to get started," said Charles Cotner, president of the Flasher Holstein Breeding circuit. "But we knew that gambling in wheat was the 'bunk.' New Salem did it, there was no reason why we couldn't."

Then he outlined how the Flasher dairy circuit, modern farms of which were inspected by fully 6,000 people, was organized originally by 10 men.

Plan Works Well
The day went off smoothly, the arrangements for handling the crowds proving perfect. Groups of automobiles—25 in each group—were so arranged on their tours to the farms that they did not come in contact with each other, and at each farm there were talks, explanation of records and practical demonstrations.

In the auto caravan was included 11 carloads of Wells county farmers. There were 70 South Dakota cars,

WRECK OF A RUNAWAY CAR

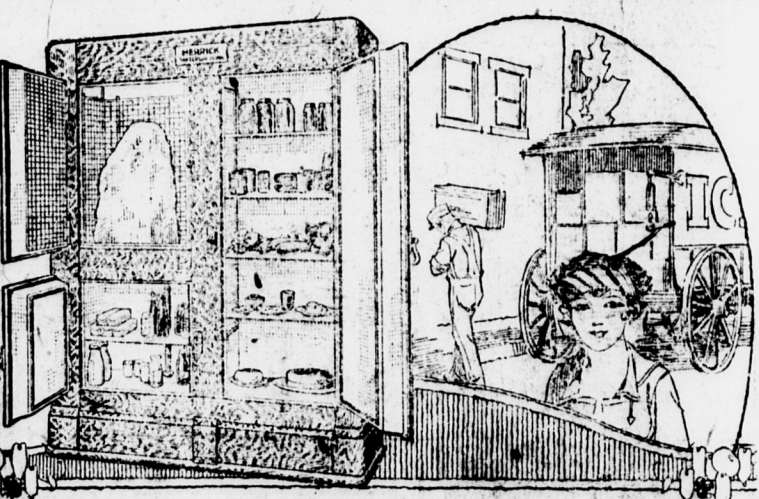

This one man trolley car ran backwards eight blocks on Amsterdam avenue, New York City, left the rails and crashed into a tenement building, killing a little girl and injuring several others. Three floors of the building walls were wrecked.

DIDN'T NEED AN ALARM CLOCK

Augusto Morisi, of Springfield, Mass., awoke the other morning long before the alarm went off. Six freight cars escaped from the yards and took a little joy ride which ended as most joy rides do. Morisi and six others, dropped to the cellar when the house was wrecked, escaped serious injury.

THE ELTINGE

"The Good Provider," a Fannie Brady story, featuring Miss Gordon and Dore Davidson, both of whom were striking figures in "Humoresque," comes to the Eltinge Theatre Friday and Saturday. Miriam Battista, another bright light of "Humoresque," is again seen as a little Jewish girl. Others in the fine cast are: Vivienne Osborne, William Boster, Collier, Jr., John Roche, Blanche Craig, Ora Jones, Edward Phillips, Muriel Martin and Margaret Severn, the dancer. Miss Gordon is a native of Russia, where she began her theatrical career in a mother role at the age of twelve. She came to the United States in 1910 and won fame on the Yiddish stage and later on the English-speaking stage. She was seen in "The Land of the Free," "Why Worry?" with Fannie Brady, "The Gentle Wife" and as Mrs. Potash in the London production of "Potash and Perlmutter."

Also Brady comes to the Eltinge, Thursday in "The Leopardess."

"Brothers Under the Skin," the picture at the Capitol Theatre tonight, is one of those light, exceedingly entertaining comedy dramas that come once in an age, and which are always received with delight. The wives of both are young, beautiful, charming, but luxury-loving and irresponsible. Both keep their husbands in eternal debt and eternally worried.

straw at which the two husbands rebel. In no ungentle fashion the respective wives are shown the error of their ways. And all, presumably is well thereafter.

"Brothers Under the Skin," has one of those small but distinctive casts that are seen too infrequently. Helene Chadwick, as the shipping clerk's wife, repeats the notably fine performance she gave as the young wife in "Dangerous Curve Ahead." Claire Windsor, whose beauty and acting ability have made her one of the most popular leading women of the screen, appears as Dorothy Kirtland, the other wife. The two husbands are respectively Pat O'Mally and Norman Kerry. Mae Busch is again the vamp in this laugh-a-minute picture, and as usual a fascinating one. The film was directed by E. Mason Hopper, whose gift, light touch was evident throughout. Whether you are a picture fan or not, we unhesitatingly recommend "Brothers Under the Skin."

FLAG DAY OBSERVED BY ROTARIANS

Rev. Ryerson Pays Tribute to American Flag and Rotary

Flag Day was observed today by the Rotarians at their noon luncheon at the McKenzie hotel. In an eloquent address Rev. Joseph Ryerson, rector of St. George's church, sketched the nation's development under the Stars and Stripes. He declared that the flag embraced within its domain all climates, all latitudes, all longitudes and that it typified the great ideals of the nation. He declared that the nation of this flag had never in any of her various wars been the aggressor and that each conflict was for principle. He spoke glowingly of the opportunity for advancement in this country and how the flag typifies for all shelter in a nation where freedom of thought is sacred. Rev. Ryerson paid a high tribute to Rotary and what it is accomplishing throughout the world.

S. E. Bergeson of the June program committee presided at today's luncheon.

Clyde Young gave an account of his recent visit to Washington to attend the National Conference of Social Workers. He declared that his impression was that there are too many organizations in the nation many duplicating effort and that probably too much valuable time and money is spent upon conventions that could well be eliminated. He declared, however, that they had a broadening effect upon the delegates and that in the group in which he was interested, twenty-eight separate organizations were represented.

He paid a high tribute to the city plan followed at the national capital. Mr. Young urged Rotary to get behind a city plan for Bismarck and the abandonment of the present "lean-in" policy. He declared that no city ever grew beautiful without a plan. Now was the time, he said, for this city to adopt a plan if a city beautiful were to be realized in Bismarck.

H. T. Murphy, postmaster, urged the Rotarians to attend the postmasters' convention and especially the meeting arranged with the business men when complaints as to service will be received and suggestions upon how to benefit the service asked.

Guests at the luncheon were: Rev. Ryerson, A. A. Jones, Otis Jones and C. B. Craven of Carrington.

MACOMBER IS RENAMED HEAD

Continues as President of Coal Company

W. P. Macomber was reelected president and general manager of the Washburn Lignite Coal Company at the annual directors' meeting in Minneapolis yesterday. Stanley Washburn of Lakewood, N. J., was reelected vice-president, while W. H. Keller, Secretary-Treasurer of the company since its organization 20 years ago retired at the age of 78 years. He was succeeded by Jefferson Steiner of Minneapolis. Mr. Macomber and G. W. Stewart, assistant manager, were reelected on the board of directors.

The company enjoyed the biggest year in its history from last August when the strike was settled and mining began to the close of the fiscal year, April 30, mining 275,000 tons of lignite.

Some confusion has arisen as to the postmasters' gatherings in Bismarck this week.

It is announced that on Friday there will be the North Dakota state postal conference and on Saturday it will be merged into the Postmasters' convention.

It is hoped by local postoffice officials that several hundred postmasters will be present.

BOOK BANNED NOT DAKOTAN'S

Prof. West Should be Listed From Minnesota, Educators Say

Recently a New York City official announced his opposition to retention of certain histories in the New York schools because they were "pro-British and un-American." He included a history by Prof. William Mason West, given as from North Dakota.

Another story has come from Indianapolis where Frank Henley, adjutant of the American Legion, has succeeded in having objectionable books removed from the list of texts of the state, on the ground that the books failed to pay proper regard for the historic acts of Americans during the Revolutionary War.

The book named "A History of the American People" by Prof. West is one of them.

North Dakota educators here say that Prof. West should not be announced as from North Dakota. While he at one time was professor at the University of North Dakota this is said to have been over 20 years ago. After that he went to the University of Minnesota as professor, and so far as educators here know, is still there.

The water pressure pump will be run evenings during the dry weather for sprinkling.

Looking Ahead

IN ATTEMPTING to vision the demands for its products, which the next ten years may develop, the Standard Oil Company (Indiana), taking counsel of its long experience, is preparing to care for an enormous increased business when it develops.

In the decade just past the demand for gasoline has increased far beyond the dream of the most imaginative, as viewed from 1913.

In that year there were 1,287,000 automotive vehicles registered in continental United States.

Today, there are more than ten times as many, yet, the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is able to supply the demand for its service now more promptly and with greater efficiency than was possible ten years ago.

The Company has been able to keep up with this great, constantly increasing demand because it always is working with a keen eye to the future and preparing, so far as is possible, for the extreme demand which may be developed.

During the past ten years the Company has found it necessary to expand its manufacturing facilities to an extraordinary degree; to create and develop processes which would recover a greater amount of gasoline from a given quantity of crude, without in any way sacrificing quality—to expand and perfect a network of distributing outlets which would operate with machine-like precision—bulk storage depots, service stations, delivery trucks and tank wagons.

Not even the remotest spot in the ten Middle Western states is without Standard Oil service.

All of these things have been done. They have been accomplished without any blare of trumpets—just as a part of the day's work.

It is the ambition of the 27,000 men and women who make up the personnel of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) to conduct every department of the Company's activities so that you, as an American citizen, will point with pride to the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) as a leader in a highly specialized branch of an essential industry.

BARBOT'S WONDER

A flying flivver, which carries you 60 miles on a gallon of "gas" and can be manufactured in quantities at $400 apiece! It is being successfully demonstrated in our country by Georges Barbot, its French inventor. Compare with the cost of driving a car.

Barbot's baby plane weighs only 400 pounds. It is shipped "in the knockdown"—came from France in a crate. Its tiny motor is 12 horsepower. But it's powerful. Barbot claims it can climb more than a mile up into the air in 30 minutes. This baby plane carries only one passenger. A machine to carry more would be a simple matter of multiplication.

Barbot's plane has tapering dragonfly wings, braced internally to cut down the air resistance.

These wings have a spread of only 40 feet.

That's about the width of the garage you'd require.

Later on, the inventors probably will discover how to do away with wings entirely. Seems impossible. It once seemed equally impossible, the idea of an ocean-going ship without sails. Only the wild visionaries in those days pictured anything like a ship propelled by steam engine and screw.

Barbot's baby plane may or may not turn the trick, but it's just a matter of time until the flying flivver will take the place of the auto as the main vehicle of transportation. The auto, of course, will continue in widespread use in the Air Age, like the horse in the Auto Age. But the real roads of the future will be in the air. No paving taxes! No tire bills!

Before the airplane can come into general use, it must be cheap. Barbot demonstrates cheapness is possible. It must also be able to rise and descend in a straight up-and-down line. The helicopter machine is the key to this. The universal auto also must be fool-proof. Some invention like the gyroscope will prevent its falling, even when stalled in the air.

It is not beyond probability that our descendants, when their planes stall in the air, will have to use a rope ladder to get down to earth, under certain conditions of machinery out of order.

SEX
Why are there two sexes? Nobody knows, says Dr. Myerson in his new book, "The Foundations of Personality." Males and females as separate individuals are relatively recent institutions, measured by the infinite time so far passed in evolution.

In the primitive life-forms, the individual has children by simply dividing itself into halves. You can see this under a microscope if you seek a scientist some evening instead of the movies.

Plant life includes another system—combining two sexes in the one individual. Queer mysteries, life and reproduction.

Writing about sex, Dr. William J. Robinson comments that the ideal relationship between lovers is to have a real harmony of tastes, desires and ambitions—to be friends as well as lovers.

But people who fall in love are so rarely alike that there's an old saying about the advisability of marrying one's opposite. This is not true mentally and spiritually. It is true physically, as part of nature's scheme of evening things up, restoring the balance to keep us from wandering too far from standards. So the big woman marries the little man and Goldie Locks prefers Black Eyes.

FISH
You don't need to wait any longer for the season's biggest fish yarn. Jake Barnett and Snapper Schellenger, fishing in the Delaware Bay, claim they caught nine channel bass totaling 800 pounds in weight, in one hour.

The food supply easiest to get commercially is fish. It will not be many years until our rapidly increasing population will have to depend on water life for a considerable part of its food, the same as now in Japan. Most of the large cities on the Great Lakes are stupidly killing off the fish by dumping their sewage into the lakes. The federal government could stop that, and should. It owns the Great Lakes.

MARRIAGE
Applying for a Civil War widow's pension, Mrs. Catherine A. Wheeler (of Union, Okla.) tells the Pension Office that she was the wife of veteran Wheeler 73 years and over. The Pension Office says this is the longest period of wedlock which it has ever officially encountered.

Seventy-three years is a mighty long time to live with anybody. Young people, inclined to marry hastily, should keep this Wheeler case in mind. A great many people believe that marriage is for eternity.

BARKERS
At the Fort Berthold Indian Agency in North Dakota, the red men decide that no Indian in that territory can have more than two dogs, and that these must pay $1 a head license yearly. Each Indian was trying to keep at least six, and something had to be done.

In some white sections you still can tell how poor a man is by the number of dogs he keeps.

The person who wastes too much affection on mongrels is apt not to have enough left for humans.

IRON
We still live in the Iron Age. And last year, the world's production of pig iron was only a trifle more than 50 million tons. If you bother to figure it out, you find that it required about 60 pounds of iron for each person on earth to keep the Iron Age going. Iron, not gold, is the metal to be respected.

Output of pig iron last year was a third less than in 1913, which shows how the war set the world back.

ADVENTURE OF THE TWINS

By Olive Roberts Barton

Mister Toots, the engineer, started his tiny engine and the Choo-Choo Express went chugging away. "What is the next station?" Nick asked Mister Punch, the conductor. "It's called Ball Town," Mister Punch told him.

"Does the train stop there?" asked Nancy.

"Yes, indeed!" answered Mister Punch kindly. "And as we have to fix something under one of the cars, you can get off for half an hour."

"Then we'll hunt for Ruby Joan," said Nancy eagerly. "Maybe she has come here to play ball."

"Or see a ball game!" smiled Mister Punch, helping them off as the train slowed down.

But Nancy didn't hear him, she was so interested in what she saw. A stout football with his jacket laced tight to his chin was walking along and talking to a still fatter basketball, each insisting that he was thinner than the other.

Like most fat people, neither of them liked to be fat.

They were talking so much and so loud, that Nancy had to speak three times before they heard her.

"Did we see a rag-doll? Well, I should say not," replied Mister Football to Nancy's question. "But you might ask the baseball. He's more interested in rags than we are, for they say he's stuffed with rags or strings or something like that. We are filled with air."

"Thank you," said the Twins politely, hurrying off and catching up with the baseball.

"None," said Mister Baseball. "Didn't see her. Ask the rubber ball, or the jackball. They're more for girls. You might ask the tennis ball, too and the golfball, and the tennis ball. Someone may know something about her."

But nobody did.

The disappointed Twins went back to their train and the Choo-Choo Express chugged away.

HE PICKED THE WRONG GUIDE

LETTER FROM JOHN ALDEN PRESCOTT TO SYDNEY CARTON

DEAR SYD:

What was that somewhat melodramatic couplet that runs something like this—

"The sins ye do two by two Ye pay for one by one."

I am not good at quoting poetry, Syd, but as an opening to this letter these words will do very well.

To come to the point, day before yesterday a special messenger brought me a note to the office from Paula. In it she told me that she was in great trouble and must see me at once.

She asked me to come and see her that evening. Of course that was out of the question, but her letter was so ambiguous, it told so much and yet so little, that I am frightened out of my wits.

Fortunately, Alice Hamilton, Leslie's sister, is leaving this week for England and her father and mother will visit New York for about a week at this time. I had said nothing to Leslie about going because, honestly Syd, I did not feel as though I could afford that fifty dollars or so that I should have to give Leslie if she made the trip. I could not let her go down there with no money although I knew of course Mr. Hamilton would pay all expenses after she arrived.

When, however, I got this message from Paula, I knew it was up to me in some way to send Leslie out of the city until some arrangements were made with Paula whereby she would relinquish my claim she had upon me and give me back those letters.

After all I have said about a man writing compromising letters to a girl, to think I would do this thing myself! But she led me on, Syd, she led me on. Every time I would try to go her one better, when she said something sweet, I grew quite proud of my d—n literary attainments.

I've had my lesson, Syd, and if I got out of this, I'll never write another letter again to anyone, not even my wife.

Of course I felt like a yellow dog with a stumpy tail and a lop ear when I went home that night and offered to send Leslie to New York. If poor child and she was afraid to ask me for the little money needed because she thought that I could not afford it.

My God, Syd! What scoundrels all men are. I do love Leslie—love her better than any other woman that I have ever known, and really and honestly, I wouldn't care so much about Paula if I did not think that any scandal might hurt Leslie.

Besides, Syd, I'd hate to have her lose her trust in me. However, thank God she isn't a woman who drops to analyze much. She takes whatever I say and whatever I do as the thing that it is right to say and do.

That was one of the things about Leslie that first endeared her to me. She never contradicted.

Please come up, Syd, for three or four days while Leslie is gone and help me out of this mess. I would do as much for you for I feel that I never can look Leslie in the face again unless I can do it squarely with all my past behind me.

Enclosed find Paula's letter.

JACK.

Repair work on the Chautauque park dam will start Saturday and probably be completed within a week. The city park commission has received telegrams from J. A. Hedland, supervisor in charge of the work, stating that two car loads of equipment had been shipped from Minneapolis.

H. K. Jensen, past exalted ruler of the Mandan E. P. O. Etlaks was in Jamestown yesterday at a meeting of past exalted rulers of the state meeting to be held at Devils Lake next week.

A number of students have returned from their various colleges for the summer vacations. Among them are Archie Olson, University of North Dakota, Robert Rendeh, St. John's academy, Delafield, Wis., Robert Cummings, and Leslie McDonald, Notre Dame, South Bend, Ind.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Calvin Gray, enemy of Colonel Henry Nelson, banker, hires three men to watch Nelson's activities in the oil fields. Gus Briskow strikes oil and Gray visits him in his beautiful new home. Allie Briskow, daughter of Gus, falls in love with Gray, but he loves Barbara Parker. Bud Briskow, Allie's brother, having been rescued by Gray from the hands of an adventures, goes to take charge of the Briskow oil wells. He phones to Gray telling him that oil is expected on some land in which Gray has interest. Allie goes to spend a few days with Bud.

"Was that Buddy talking?" "It was, and he gave me some good news. He says that well on thirty-five is liable to come in any minute, and it looks like a big one." The speaker's eyes were glowing, and he ran on, breathlessly. "He says they're betting it will be better than ten thousand barrels!" "Ten thousand barrels?" Briskow echoed.

"That's what he said. Of course, they can't tell a thing about it. Buddy's only guessing, but I haven't had a big well yet." Gray took a nervous turn about the room.

"I'm going out on tonight's train and see it come in—if it does come in. I told Buddy to stop work; not to drop another tool until I arrived. Fatted for destruction? I like the sound of that. Ten thousand barrels! Hol I'll write this day in brass. Why, that lease will sell for a million. It—it may mean the end."

Gray brought himself to with an effort, hastily he kissed Mrs. Briskow's faded cheek and wrung her husband's hand. A moment later he was gone.

"Thirty-five," where Buddy was working, was only a few miles from the Briskow ranch, therefore the boy was able to meet his sister at Ranger and drive her directly to the old home.

The ranch house seemed very mean, very insignificant to Allie, but she slipped into one of her old dresses and prepared the supper while Buddy straddled a kitchen chair and chattered upon ten thousand topics of natural interest.

On the morning of Gray coming, Allie rode with Buddy over to thirty-five. It was a wretched, rainy day, and nothing is more bleak than a rainy day in a drilling camp. Work had been halted and the men were loafing in their bunk house. Brother and sister spent the impatient hours in the mess tent.

Gray's trip from the railroad was more like a voyage than a motor journey, for the creek beds, usually dry, were angry torrents, and the "dobe flats" were quagmires through which his vehicle plowed hub deep; nevertheless he was fresh and alert when he arrived. After a buoyant greeting to Allie, he and Buddy inspected the well, then he issued orders for work to be resumed.

Word had gone forth that there was something doing on thirty-five, and from the chautauque emerged muddy motor cars bringing scouts, neighboring lease owners, and even the members of a near-by casing crew.

Supper was a jumpy meal, and nobody had much to say. Allie Briskow least of all. She was silent, intense; she curiously refused Buddy's offer to send her home, and when the men were over she followed Gray back to the derrick.

Buddy Briskow was running the rig, and the dexterity with which he handled brake and control rod gave him pride. He had seated his sister on a bench out of the way, where she was protected from the drizzle, and he felt her eyes upon him. It gave him a sense of importance to have Allie watching him at such a crisis; he wished his parents were with her.

He eased the brake and the massive bailer slid into the casing as a heavy shell slips into the breach of a cannon. As he further released his pressure the cable began to pour serpentine from the drum. Buddy turned his wet, grimy face and flashed a grin at Allie. She smiled back at him faintly. Some lightning-like change in her expression, or perhaps some occult sense of the untoward warned him that all was not as it should be, and he jerked his head back to attention.

During that moment of inattention the bailer had stuck. Perhaps five hundred feet below, friction had checked its plunge, and meanwhile the velvet-running drum, spinning at its maximum velocity by reason of the whirling bull wheel, was unreeing its cable down upon the derrick platform. Down it poured in fant loops, and within these coils, either unconscious of its danger or paralyzed by its suddenness, stood Calvin Gray.

Instinct, rather than reason, warned Buddy not to check the blinding revolutions of the bull wheel. Without thought he leaped forward into the midst of those swiftly forming loops, and as he landed upon the slippery floor he clenched his fist and struck with all the power he could put behind his massive arm. Gray's back was to him, the blow was like that of a walking beam, and it sent the elder man flying as a tennis ball is hurled ahead of a bowling ball. Buddy fell, too. He went sprawling. As the cable across the muddy floor he felt the steel cable writhing under him like a thing alive, and the touch of it as it streamed into the well burned his flesh. He kicked and fought it as he would have fought the closing folds of a python, for the bailer was falling again and the wire loops were vanishing as the coils in a whiplash vanish during its flight. Buddy's booted legs were thrown high, he was tossed aside like a thing of paper, but blind, half stunned, he scrambled back to his feet. By this time the whole structure of the derrick was rocking to the mad gyrations of the bull wheel; the giant spool was spinning with a speed that threatened to send it flying like the fragments of a bursting bomb, but the youth understood dimly the danger of stopping it too suddenly—to fetch up the plunging weight at the cable end might snap the line, collapse the derrick, "jim" the well. Buddy weaved dizzily in his tracks; nevertheless, his hand was steady, and he applied a gradually increasing pressure to the brake. Not did he take his eyes from his task until the drum had ceased revolving and the runaway bailer hung motionless in the well.

They carried Gray to the bunk house, and his limbs hung loosely, his head lolled in a manner terrifying to Buddy and his sister.

But Gray was not dead. Buddy's blow had well-nigh broken his neck, and he had suffered a further injury to his head in falling; nevertheless, he responded to such medical aid as they could supply, and in time he opened his eyes.

When for a second time he lapsed into semiconsciousness, it was Allie Briskow who put his orders into execution. "You ain't doing any good standing 'round staring at him and whispering. Bring in that well, as fast as ever you can, and bring it in big. Now, get out and leave him to me."

It was late that night when the well came in. It came with a rush and a roar, drenching the derrick with a geyser of muddy water and driving both crew and spectators out into the gloom. Up, up the column rose, spraying itself into mist, and from its iron throat issued a sound unlike that of any other phenomenon.

Calvin Gray had recovered his senses sufficiently to understand the meaning of that uproar, and he tried to get up, but Allie held him down upon his bed. She was still struggling with him when her brother burst into the house, shouting.

"It's a gasser, Mr. Gray! Biggest I ever seen."

"Gasser?" the latter mumbled, indistinctly. "Isn't there any oil?" His words were almost like a whisper because of the noise.

"Not yet. May be later. See, she's a heller, ain't she? I'll bet she's makin' twenty million feet—"

"Gasser's no good."

"Can't tell yet. We gotta shut her down easy so she don't blow the casing out—run wild on us, understand?" Buddy was still breathless, but he had that set, steady sound.

With a tragic intensity akin to madness, Gray stared up at Allie Briskow's face. "Worthless, eh? And they told me ten thousand barrels." He carried a shaking hand to his bandaged head and tried vainly to collect his wits. "What's matter?" he queried, thickly. "Everything whirling—sick—"

"You had an accident, but it's all right; all right—no! Please lie still!"

"Running wild, eh? That's what hurts my head so. Blown the casing out—Bad, isn't it? Sometimes they run wild for weeks, ruin everything." He tried again to rise, then insisted, querulously: "Got to get oil in this well! I've got to! Last chance, Allie. Got to get ten thousand barrels!"

"Please! You mustn't—" Allie had her strong hands upon his shoulders; she was arguing firmly but as gently as possible under the circumstances, when something occurred so extraordinary, so unexpected, as to paralyze her. Of a sudden the interior of the dimly lit, canvas-roofed shack was illuminated as if by a searchlight, and she turned her head to see that the whole out of doors was visible and that the night itself had turned into day.

With a cry that died weakly amid the chaos of sound beating over her, the girl ran to the window and looked out. What she beheld was a nightmare scene. The well was afire. It had exploded into flame.

Allie tore her eyes away from the spectacle finally. She turned back to the bed, then she halted, for it was empty. The door, still ajar from Buddy's headlong exit, informed her whence her patient had gone, and she flew after him.

She found him not half a dozen paces away. In fact, she stumbled over his prostrate body. With an amazon's strength, she gathered him into her arms, then staggered with him back to his couch, and as she strained him to herself she loudly called his name.

Paola Conte Gives Organ Recital at Methodist Church

Paola Conte of Grand Forks will appear in the organ recital to be given at the Methodist Episcopal church Friday, June 15, at 8:15 o'clock. She will be assisted by local artists, and Mrs. Genevieve M. Hughes will play piano accompaniment for some of the songs.

- The program for the occasion follows:
- a. Prelude and Fantasia—Conte.
 - b. Prelude in D Major—Bach.
 - c. Egyptian Lament—Conte.
 - d. Album Leaf—Conte.
 - e. Theme taken from a Venetian Love Song—La Blondina in Gondoliera.

Recital Program Pleases Audience

Mrs. Clara Rudge presented her vocal and expression pupils in recital at the high school auditorium last night. Wednesday, before a good sized audience.

The program opened with a vocal selection by Miss Hazel Pierre. She sang "Prelude" by London Ronald, in a pleasing manner. This was followed by a reading, "The Grammarian at Fond du Lac," given by Elizabeth Newton, who interpreted the piece delightfully. Bayard Jacobson then sang "Dunna" by McGiff, in a pleasing manner. Mrs. Hughes sang a selection from "Marriage of Figaro" by Mozart very sweetly and with good expression, after which Mrs. Newton, Mr. Sakariassen and Mr. Hendrickson sang a trio, "Out Where the West Begins." This was an effective number and was well rendered.

"Betty at the Baseball Game," a reading given by Miss Isabella Cochran, deserves special mention. It was enthusiastically received by the audience. Miss Cochran impersonated the self-conscious Betty and gave her humorous description of the game in quite a professional manner. Earl Hendrickson sang "Bells of the Sea," by Goldman, which was well judged to his voice. This was followed by a duet sung by Mrs. Heall and Mr. Sakariassen, whose voices blended in a most pleasing manner. Miss Cochran then sang "Lullaby" from Carmen. Miss Marion Ackerman gave a touching reading called "Lullaby" in a very realistic and effective manner. Mrs. Heall sang a selection from Sampson and Delilah with splendid interpretation, and Mr. Sakariassen sang "A Song of Thanksgiving" by Frances Allstetter in a most pleasing manner.

Mrs. Hughes and Mrs. Heall played the accompaniment. The program closed with a domestic farce in one act, called "The Real Thing," which gave a very humorous account of various ladies who were anxious to employ a "culinary artist." Bridget O'Hara, interpreted by Mrs. Newton, was a "culinary artist" of some experience, and succeeded in subduing all the would-be employers until she encountered Mrs. Thaddeus Perkins, played by Miss Cochran. Mrs. Perkins showed Bridget her place, and succeeded in employing her where the others failed. Others taking part in the farce were: Mrs. Newton, Mrs. Hughes, Miss Pierre, Miss Marion, Elizabeth Newton, Mrs. Heall and Miss Ingram.

Crushed Strawberry Jam
For this jam it is necessary that each berry be broken up. Therefore, crush about 3 quarts ripe berries in separate portions, so that each berry is crushed. This allows fruit to quickly absorb the sugar during the short boil. Measure 4 level cups (3 lbs.) crushed berries into large kettle, add 2 level cups (1 lb.) sugar and mix well. Use hottest fire and stir constantly before and while boiling. Boil hard for one full minute, remove from fire and stir in 1/2 bottle (about 1/2 cup) Certo. From time jam is taken off the stove it should not over 5 minutes, by the clock, before pouring. In the meantime skim, and stir occasionally to cool slightly. Then pour quickly. If in open glasses prefill at once. If in jars seal at once and invert for 15 minutes to sterilize the tops. Use same recipe for Raspberry, Blackberry or Loganberry jam.

Pineapple and Strawberry Jam
Crush well about 1 qt. ripe berries. Put pineapple through food cutter, or chop very fine. Measure 2 level cups (1 lb.) of each into large kettle. Add 2 level cups (1 lb.) sugar and mix well. Use hottest fire and stir constantly before and while boiling. Boil hard for 1 minute, remove from fire and stir in 1/2 bottle (about 1/2 cup) Certo. Skim and pour quickly.

This was an effective number and was well received.

"Betty at the Baseball Game," a reading given by Miss Izabella Cochran, deserves special mention. It was enthusiastically received by the audience. Miss Cochran impersonated the self-conscious Betty and gave the humorous description of the game in quite a professional manner. Earl Hendrickson sang "Bells of the Sea," by Solman, which was well adapted to his voice. This was followed by a duet sung by Mrs. Hearl and Mr. Sakariassen, whose voices blended in a most pleasing manner. Miss Cochran then sang "Fabanera from Carmen." Miss Marion Ackerman gave a touching reading of the poem, "Lullaby," in a very realistic and effective manner. Mrs. Hearl sang a selection from Sampson and Delilah with splendid interpretation, and Mr. Sakariassen sang "A Song of Thanksgiving" by Frances Allisten in a most pleasing manner.

Mrs. Hughes and Mrs. Hearl played the accompaniments.

The program closed with a domestic farce in one act, called "The Real Thing," which gave a very humorous account of various ladies who were anxious to employ a "culinary artist." Bridget O'Hara, interpreted by Mrs. Newton, was a "culinary artist" of some experience, and succeeded in subduing all the would-be employers until she encountered Mrs. Thaddeus Perkins, played by Miss Cochran. Mrs. Perkins showed Bridget her place, and succeeded in employing her where the others failed. Others taking part in the farce were: Miss Newton, Mrs. Hughes, Miss Pierce, Miss Monson, Elizabeth Newton, Mrs. Hearl and Miss Ingram.

Crushed Strawberry Jam
For this jam it is necessary that each berry be broken up. Therefore, crush about 2 quarts ripe berries in separate portions, so that each berry is mashed. This allows fruit to quickly absorb the sugar during the short boil. Measure 4 level cups (2 lbs.) crushed berries into large kettle, add 7 level cups (3 lbs.) sugar and mix well. Use hottest fire and stir constantly before and while boiling. Boil hard for one full minute, remove from fire and stir in 1/2 bottle (scant 1/2 cup) Certo. From time jam is taken off the fire allow to stand not over 5 minutes, by the clock, before pouring. In the meantime skin, and stir occasionally to cool slightly. Then pour quickly. If in open glasses paraffin at once. If in jars seal at once and invert for 10 minutes to sterilize the tops. Use same recipe for Raspberry, Blackberry or Loganberry jam.

Pineapple and Strawberry Jam
Crush well about 1 qt. ripe berries. Put pineapple through food cutter, or chop very fine. Measure 2 level cups (1 lb.) of each into large kettle. Add 7 level cups (3 lbs.) sugar and mix well. Use hottest fire and stir constantly before and while boiling. Boil hard for 1 minute, remove from fire and stir in 1/2 bottle (scant 1/2 cup) Certo. Skim and pour quickly.

THE STATE'S OLDEST NEWSPAPER
(Established 1873)

BARBOT'S WONDER
A flying flivver, which carries you 60 miles on a gallon of "gas" and can be manufactured in quantities at $400 apiece! It is being successfully demonstrated in our country by Georges Barbot, its French inventor. Compare with the cost of driving a car.

Barbot's baby plane weighs only 400 pounds. It is shipped "in the knockdown"—came from France in a crate. Its tiny motor is 12 horsepower. But it's powerful. Barbot claims it can climb more than a mile up into the air in 30 minutes. This baby plane carries only one passenger. A machine to carry more would be a simple matter of multiplication.

Barbot's plane has tapering dragonfly wings, braced internally to cut down the air resistance. These wings have a spread of only 40 feet. That's about the width of the garage you'd require. Later on, the inventors probably will discover how to do away with wings entirely. Seems impossible. It once seemed equally impossible, the idea of an ocean-going ship without sails. Only the wild visionaries in those days pictured anything like a ship propelled by steam engine and screw.

Barbot's baby plane may or may not turn the trick, but it's just a matter of time until the flying flivver will take the place of the auto as the main vehicle of transportation. The auto, of course, will continue in widespread use in the Air Age, like the horse in the Auto Age. But the real roads of the future will be in the air. No paving taxes! No tire oils!

Before the airplane can come into general use, it must be cheap. Barbot demonstrates cheapness is possible. It must also be able to rise and descend in a straight up-and-down line. The helicopter machine is the key to this. The universal auto also must be fool-proof. Some invention like the gyroscope will prevent its falling, even when stalled in the air.

It is not beyond probability that our descendants, when their planes stall in the air, will have to use a rope ladder to get down to earth, under certain conditions of machinery out of order.

SEX

Why are there two sexes? Nobody knows, says Dr. Myerson in his new book, "The Foundations of Personality." Males and females as separate individuals are relatively recent institutions, measured by the infinite time so far passed in evolution.

In the primitive life-forms, the individual has children by simply dividing itself into halves. You can see this under a microscope if you seek a scientist some evening instead of the movies.

Plant life includes another system—combining two sexes in the one individual. Queer mysteries, life and reproduction.

Writing about sex, Dr. William J. Robinson comments that the ideal relationship between lovers is to have a real harmony of tastes, desires and ambitions—to be friends as well as lovers.

But people who fall in love are so rarely alike that there's an old saying about the advisability of marrying one's opposite. This is not true mentally and spiritually. It is true physically, as part of nature's scheme of evening things up, restoring the balance to keep us from wandering too far from standards. So the big woman marries the little man and Goldie Locks prefers Black Eyes.

FISH

You don't need to wait any longer for the season's biggest fish yarn. Jake Barnett and Snapper Schellenger, fishing in the Delaware Bay, claim they caught nine channel bass totaling 800 pounds in weight, in one hour.

The food supply easiest to get commercially is fish. It will not be many years until our rapidly increasing population will have to depend on water life for a considerable part of its food, the same as now in Japan. Most of the large cities on the Great Lakes are steadily killing off the fish by dumping their sewage into the lakes. The federal government could stop that, and should. It owns the Great Lakes.

MARRIAGE

Applying for a Civil War widow's pension, Mrs. Catherine A. Wheeler (of Union, Okla.) tells the Pension Office that she was the wife of veteran Wheeler 73 years and over. The Pension Office says this is the longest period of wedlock which it has ever officially encountered.

Seventy-three years is a mighty long time to live with anybody. Young people, inclined to marry hastily, should keep this Wheeler case in mind. A great many people believe that marriage is for eternity.

BARKERS

At the Fort Berthold Indian Agency in North Dakota, the red men decide that no Indian in that territory can have more than two dogs, and that these must pay $1 a head license yearly. Each Indian was trying to keep at least six, and something had to be done.

In some white sections you still can tell how poor a man is by the number of dogs he keeps. The person who wastes too much affection on mongrels is apt not to have enough left for humans.

IRON

We still live in the Iron Age. And last year, the world's production of pig iron was only a trifle more than 50 million tons. If you bother to figure it out, you find that it required about 60 pounds of iron for each person on earth to keep the Iron Age going. Iron, not gold, is the metal to be respected. Output of pig iron last year was a third less than in 1913, which shows how the war set the world back.

ADVENTURE OF THE TWINS

By Olive Roberts Barton

Mister Toots, the engineer, started his tiny engine and the Choo-Choo Express went chugging away. "What is the next station?" Nick asked Mister Punch, the conductor. "It's called Ball Town," Mister Punch told him.

"Does the train stop there?" asked Nancy.

"Yes, indeed," answered Mister Punch kindly. "And as we have to fix something under one of the cars, you can get off for half an hour."

"Then we'll hunt for Ruby Joan," said Nancy eagerly. "Maybe she has come here to play ball."

"Or see a ball game?" smiled Mister Punch, helping them off as the train slowed down.

But Nancy didn't hear him, she was so interested in what she saw. A stout football with his jacket laced tight to his chin was walking along and talking to a still tatter basket-ball, each insisting that he was thinner than the other.

Like most fat people, neither of them liked to be fat.

They were talking so much and so loud, that Nancy had to speak three times before they heard her.

"Did we see a rag-doll?" Well, I should say not," replied Mister Football to Nancy's question. "But you might catch the baseball. He's more interested in rags than we are, for they say he's stuffed with rags or strings or something like that. We are filled with air."

"Thank you," said the Twins politely, hurrying off and catching up with the baseball.

"Nope," said Mister Baseball. "Didn't see her. Ask the rubber-ball, or the jackball. They're more for girls. You might ask the tennis ball, too, and the golfball, and the tennis-ball. Someone may know something about her."

But nobody did.

The disappointed Twins went back to their train and the Choo-Choo Express chugged away.

HE PICKED THE WRONG GUIDE

LETTER FROM JOHN ALDEN PRESCOTT TO SYDNEY CARTON

DEAR SYD:

What was that somewhat melodramatic couplet that runs something like this—

"The sins ye do two by two
Ye pay for one by one."

I am not good at quoting poetry, Syd, but as an opening to this letter, these words will do very well.

To come to the point, day before yesterday a special messenger brought me a note to the effect from Paula. In it she told me that she was in great trouble and must see me at once.

She asked me to come and see her that evening. Of course that was out of the question, but her letter was so ambiguous, it told so much and yet so little, that I am frightened out of my wits.

Fortunately, Alice Hamilton, Leslie's sister, is leaving this week for England and her father and mother will visit New York for about a week at this time. I had said nothing to Leslie about going because, honestly, I did not feel as though I could afford that fifty dollars or so that I should have to give Leslie if she made the trip. I could not let her go down there with no money, although I knew of course Mr. Hamilton would pay all expenses after she arrived.

When, however, I got this message from Paula, I knew it was up to me in some way to send Leslie out of the city until some arrangements were made with Paula where-by she would relinquish any claim she had upon me and give me back those letters.

After all I have said about a man writing compromising letters to a girl, I think I would do this thing myself! But she led me on, Syd, she led me on. Every time I would try to go her one better, when she said something sweet, I grew quite proud of my d-n literary attainments.

I've had my lesson, Syd, and if I got out of this, I'll never write another letter again to anyone, not even my wife.

Of course I felt like a yellow dog with a stumpy tail and a lop ear when I went home that night and offered to send Leslie to New York. The poor child said she was afraid to ask me for the little money needed because she thought that I could not afford it.

My God, Syd! What scoundrels all men are. I do love Leslie—love her better than any other woman that I have ever known, and really and honestly, I wouldn't care so much about Paula if I did not think that any scandal might hurt Leslie.

Besides, Syd, I'd hate to have her, thank God she isn't a woman who tops to analyze much. "She takes whatever I say and whatever I do as the thing that it is right to say and do."

That was one of the things about Leslie that first endeared her to me. She never contradicted.

Please come up, Syd, for three or four days while Leslie is gone and help me out of this mess. I would like as much for you for I feel that I never can look Leslie in the face again unless I can do it equitably with all my past behind me.

Enclosed find Paula's letter.

EVERETT TRUE

BY CONDO

I STARTED THE BALL A-ROLLING. I THOUGHT UP A BRAND NEW SCHEME. I MADE 'EM ALL SIT UP AND TAKE NOTICE. I TOOK THE COMMITTEES IN HAND AND I TOLD 'EM WHERE TO HEAD IN. I SAYS—

THE RULE IS TO BEGIN EVERY SENTENCE WITH A CAPITAL LETTER, BUT THAT DOESN'T MEAN THAT YOU CAN'T USE SOME OF THE OTHER TWENTY-FIVE AND GIVE THE 'I' A CHANCE TO RELAX!!!

He asked the cable and the massive baller slid into the casing as a heavy shell slips into the breach of a cannon. As he further released his pressure the cable began to pour serpentine from the drum. Buddy turned his wet, grimy face and flashed a grin at Allie. She smiled back at him faintly. Some lightninglike change in her expression, or perhaps some occult sense of the untoward warned him that all was not as it should be, and he jerked his head back to attention.

During the moment of intention the baller had stuck. Perhaps five hundred feet below, friction had checked its plunge, and meanwhile the velvet-running drum, spinning at its maximum velocity by reason of the whirling bull wheel, was unreeling its cable down upon the derrick platform. Down it poured in fant loops, and within these coils, either unconscious of his danger or paralyzed by its suddenness, stood Calvin Gray.

Instantly, then, reason, warned Buddy not to check the blinding revolutions of the bull wheel. Without thought he leaped forward into the midst of those swiftly forming loops, and as he landed upon the slippery floor he clenched his fist and struck with all the power he could put behind his massive arm. Gray's back was to him, the blow was like that of a walking-beam, and it sent the elder man flying as a tennis ball hurled ahead of a bowling ball. Buddy fell, too. He went sprawling. As the slid across the muddy floor he felt the steel cable writhing under him like a thing alive, and the touch of it as it ate into the well-burned flesh. He kicked and fought it as he would have fought the closing folds of a python, for the baller was falling again and the wire loops were vanishing as the coils in

FLOWING GOLD

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Calvin Gray, enemy of Colonel Henry Nelson, banker, hires three men to watch Nelson's activities in the oil fields. Gus Briskow strikes oil and Gray visits him in his beautiful new home. Allie Briskow, daughter of Gus, falls in love with Gray, but he loves Barbara Parker. Bud Briskow, Allie's brother, having been rescued by Gray from the hands of an adventures, goes to take charge of the Briskow oil wells. He phones to Gray telling him that "oil is expected on some land in which Gray has interest. Allie goes to spend a few days with Bud.

NOW GO ON WITH STORY

"Was that Buddy talkin'?" "It was, and he gave me some good news. He says that well on thirty-five is liable to come in any minute, and it looks like a big one."

The speaker's eyes were glowing, and he ran on, breathlessly. "He says they're betting will be better than ten thousand barrels!" "Ten thousand barrels?" Briskow asked.

"That's what he said. Of course, they can't tell a thing about it. Buddy's only guessing, but—I haven't had a big well yet." Gray took a nervous turn about the room.

"I'm going out on tonight's train and see it come in—if it does come in. I told Buddy to stop work; not to drop another tool until I arrived. Fatted for destruction."

"Fatted for destruction?" "That's the sound of that. Ten thousand barrels! Hot! I'll write this day in brass. Why, that lease will sell for a million, it—it may mean the end."

Gray brought himself to with an effort, hastily he kissed Mrs. Briskow's faded cheek and wrung her husband's hand. A moment later he was gone.

"Thirty-five," where Buddy was working, was only a few miles from the Briskow ranch, therefore the boy was able to meet his sister at Ranger and drive her directly to the oil home.

The ranch house seemed very mean, very insignificant to Allie, but she slipped into one of her old dresses and prepared the supper while Buddy straddled a kitchen chair and chattered upon ten thousand topics of mutual interest.

On the morning of Gray's coming Allie rode with Buddy over to thirty-five. It was a wretched, rainy day, and nothing is more bleak than a rainy day in drilling camp. Wood had been hauled and the men were loafing in their bunk house. Brother and sister spent the impatient hours in the mess tent.

Gray's trip from the railroad was more like a voyage than a motor journey, for the creek beds, usually dry, were angry torrents, and the "dobe flats" were quagmires through which his vehicle plowed deep; nevertheless he was fresh and alert when he arrived. After a buoyant greeting to Allie, he and Buddy inspected the well, then he issued orders for work to be resumed.

Word had gone forth that there was something doing on thirty-five, and from the chaparral emerged muddy motor cars bringing scouts, neighboring lease owners, and even the members of a near-by casing crew.

Supper was a jumpy meal, and nobody had much to say, Allie Briskow least of all. She was silent, intense; she curiously refused Buddy's offer to send her home, and when the meal was over she followed Gray back to the derrick.

Buddy Briskow was running the rig, and the dexterity with which he handled brake and control rod gave him pride. He had seated his sister on a bench out of the way, where she was protected from the drizzle, and he felt her eyes upon him. It gave him a sense of importance to have Allie watching him at such a crisis; he wished his parents were with her.

He asked the cable and the massive baller slid into the casing as a heavy shell slips into the breach of a cannon. As he further released his pressure the cable began to pour serpentine from the drum. Buddy turned his wet, grimy face and flashed a grin at Allie. She smiled back at him faintly. Some lightninglike change in her expression, or perhaps some occult sense of the untoward warned him that all was not as it should be, and he jerked his head back to attention.

During the moment of intention the baller had stuck. Perhaps five hundred feet below, friction had checked its plunge, and meanwhile the velvet-running drum, spinning at its maximum velocity by reason of the whirling bull wheel, was unreeling its cable down upon the derrick platform. Down it poured in fant loops, and within these coils, either unconscious of his danger or paralyzed by its suddenness, stood Calvin Gray.

Instantly, then, reason, warned Buddy not to check the blinding revolutions of the bull wheel. Without thought he leaped forward into the midst of those swiftly forming loops, and as he landed upon the slippery floor he clenched his fist and struck with all the power he could put behind his massive arm. Gray's back was to him, the blow was like that of a walking-beam, and it sent the elder man flying as a tennis ball hurled ahead of a bowling ball. Buddy fell, too. He went sprawling. As the slid across the muddy floor he felt the steel cable writhing under him like a thing alive, and the touch of it as it ate into the well-burned flesh. He kicked and fought it as he would have fought the closing folds of a python, for the baller was falling again and the wire loops were vanishing as the coils in a whiplash vanish during its flight. Buddy's booted legs were thrown high, he was tossed aside like a thing of paper, but, blind half-stunned, he scrambled back to his feet. By this time the whole structure of the derrick was rocking to the mad gyrations of the bull wheel; the giant spool was spinning with a speed that threatened to send it flying, like the fragments of a bursting bomb, but the youth understood dimly the danger of stopping it too suddenly—to fetch up the plunging weight at the cable end might snap the line, collapse the derrick, "jim" the well. Buddy weaved dizzily in his tracks; never-weary, his hand was steady, and he aped a gradually increasing pressure to the brake. No! did he take his eyes from his task until the drum had ceased revolving and the runaway baller hung motionless in the well.

They carried Gray to the bunk house, and his limbs hung loosely, his head lolled in a manner terrifying to Buddy and his sister.

But Gray was not dead. Buddy's blow had well-nigh broken his neck, and he had suffered a further injury to his head in falling; nevertheless, he responded to such medical aid as they could supply, and in time he opened his eyes.

When for a second time he lapsed into semi-consciousness, it was Allie Briskow who put his orders into execution. "You ain't doing any good standing 'round staring at him and whispering. Bring in that well, as fast as ever you can, and bring it in big. Now, get out and leave him to me."

It was late that night when the well came in. It came with a rush and a roar, drenching the derrick with a geyser of muddy water and driving both crew and spectators out into the gloom. Up, up the column rose, spraying itself into mist, and from its iron throat issued a sound unlike that of any other phenomenon.

Calvin Gray had recovered his senses sufficiently to understand the meaning of that uproar, and he tried to get up, but Allie held him down upon his bed. She was still struggling with him when her brother burst into the house, shouting.

"It's a gasser, Mr. Gray! Biggest I ever seen."

"Gasser?" the latter mumbled, indistinctly. "Isn't there any oil?" His words were almost like a whisper because of the noise.

"Not yet. Maybe be later. Sap, she's making me crazy! I'll bet she's making twenty million feet—"

"Gasser's no good."

"Can't tell yet. We gotta shut her down easy so she don't blow the casing out—run wild on us, understand? Buddy was still breathless, but he plunged out the door and back into that sea of sound.

CHICAGO CUBS STRIKE HARD IN NATIONALS

Now Take the Spotlight From Brooklyn, Athletics as Sensations

YANKEES STILL SLIDE

Chicago, June 13.—Chicago's Cubs are the latest sensations of the major leagues, supplanting in interest Philadelphia in the Americans as absorbing as those teams now are. The Cubs won their seventh straight victory yesterday, the fifth straight from Boston, 12 to 11.

As the game-time draws near today the Cubs are in sixth place but only three points behind Brooklyn and Cincinnati, who are tied for third. The issue is squarely up to the Cubs, who meet the Brooklyn Robins in their own menagerie while the Reds attempt to withstand the onslaught of the Giants. Also intervening is St. Louis, which received Boston today.

Hank Gowdy made his first reappearance in the New York line-up as a pinch-hitter but he failed and Pittsburgh again won 4 to 2. The Giants have won and lost six on their road trip, two of three each to Chicago and Pittsburgh. Pittsburgh is only five and a half games behind New York and should decrease the margin this week. The Pirates meet Philadelphia while Cincinnati takes on the Giants. The Reds-Philadelphia game was prevented by rain. This rain along with Jimmy Johnson's infield error precipitated Brooklyn into a tie with Cincinnati. Brooklyn lost in the percentage column, the score being 5 to 4 in St. Louis' favor, while Cincinnati automatically advanced to third place.

Philadelphia is now three games from first place in the American league, evening the series with Detroit 7 to 3, while New York lost again making its ninth reversal out of the last 12 games it has played.

St. Louis definitely took the leadership of the second division from Washington by taking the odd game of their three-game series, 3 to 1, and the Browns, who open at the Yankee stadium today, have a chance to go into the first division as the Tigers again meet Philadelphia.

The Chicago White Sox battling to get out of last place surrendered to Boston yesterday 10 to 4.

Around The Circuit

Jamestown reports claim that Hester and his Minot bunch were reluctant to play ball in the fifth inning Monday night, when there was a slight fall of rain with Jamestown ahead. After umpire Safo called two balls, however, the Magicians went on the field.

John Homan is a dyed-in-the-wool fan, and has good reason for rooting for Bismarck—also for always taking the third base side of the diamond. TOMMY TURNS TO THE BIG FELLOWS

BY BOB DORMAN
NBA Service Writer

Shelby, Mont., June 13.—Jumping into New York right off the bat gave Gibbons a big thrill.

He did a lot of gazing at the tall buildings before he got into the ring but it evidently didn't hurt his fighting any.

His first opponent in Gotham was Tommy Nelson. Gibbons knocked him out in one round.

That was December 7, 1912. Tommy got $150 for his end.

Little did he dream then that some day he would return to New York to fight for some of his biggest purses.

Eddy Reddy First Boss
His next fight was April 22, 1913, with Tommy Bergin. Gibbons had scaled down from 164 pounds to 155 pounds since his bout with Nelson.

The fight was his on points after 10 rounds.

Eddy Reddy, Jack's brother, was Tommy Gibbons' first manager. But Brother Mike always was with him and was in his corner.

Then came a scrap with Al Worin in Hudson, Wis. The place seated about 1300. They packed it close to 4000. The sides were so jammed Tommy literally had to walk over the crowd's shoulders to get into the ring.

He scored a knockout in four rounds. His prize money totaled $400.

After this Tommy turned his attention to the big fellows.

Breaks Mike's Jaw
On Feb. 9, 1914, he went into the ring with George (Knockout) Brown. Brown was going good then. But Gibbons won in 10 rounds. That was his hardest and first real fight.

A few days later he took on Billy Miske. Again he won in 10 rounds. And he broke Miske's jaw.

Brown wanted to fight him again. They were matched to go at Madison.

year the Bismarck nine had when John played was when Aberdeen beat St. Paul and then Bismarck trimmed Aberdeen two games.

The Bismarck players got their choice of bats today before getting ready to leave for Carrington. A dozen new swat-sticks were received. They were dumped out and the players given the opportunity to try 'em all out and select what they wanted.

Wingfield, now with Jamestown, is being given work in new positions. He played third one day, second the next. He usually plays either leading the bat or on first base.

Manager Shanley of the Bismarck club believes he will win 75 per cent of his games with the club he's got right now, if the boys go right.

New Rockford-Carrington is getting a pitcher from the Toledo American Association team in its bolstering up efforts; also one from Seattle.

Sees Hot Race in Near Future
—Crowd Good, He Says

The North Dakota State League race will be a hot one before long. That's the tip of President Logan Powell of Jamestown, who was in Bismarck yesterday.

Jamestown is strengthening its team. In addition to a new catcher and Wingfield the team is getting two new pitchers for tryouts.

New Rockford-Carrington is getting a pitcher from Seattle to replace Running, who was released after the Bismarck series. It is understood Pickering will get one or two other new men.

Bismarck also probably will have one or two new additions. All the clubs are out for Minot.

The early season crowds have been good, President Powell said. He is satisfied that as the season warms up interest will increase and all the clubs will finish well financially.

Before leaving President Powell ordered Umpire Pleva to New Rockford to umpire the Bismarck-Twins series there.

Wis. "Knockout" got a worse beating than the first time.

Then Tommy fought Buck Crouse on May 22. He swears he'll never forget that fight.

Buck Sure Had Wallop
"Buck hit me the hardest I've ever been socked," he testifies. "I hung on in the second round. Mike thought I was going to get knocked out. It seemed to hurt him more than it did me when I got hit hard. I guess brothers are all like that."

"I had followed Mike's instructions up to this time. After I got pasted so hard, I asked him to let me fight my own style. He said, 'Go to it.'"

"Knocked Crouse down five or six times in the third round. In the fourth I knocked him out."

On Thanksgiving Day, Tommy went back to New York to fight Billy Glover at Gibson's club. It took him six rounds to put Billy to sleep.

Kearns Guessed Wrong
Tommy admits he was just a rough fighter then and didn't know just why he did things.

Feb. 2, 1915, he was matched with one of Jack Kearns' fighters, Billy Murray. Kearns boasted Tommy Gibbons was going to get flattened up properly. A lot of folks believed him.

Murray struck out a back hand blow, cutting Gibbons' lip open. That was the first mark Tommy ever received in the ring. Mike was worried when he started to bleed so much. But Tommy told him it wasn't bad and kept right on going.

Kearns' fighter didn't knock him out. Ten rounds and Tommy had convinced folks he had outpointed Murray.

On July 12, he tackled Billy Miske again and outpointed him. It was frightfully hot and neither put up such a good fight.

Tommy had heard a lot about Harry Greb. Harry wanted to meet Mike's brother. He got the chance to try it Nov. 12.

But Greb had a surprise coming to him—from Mike's brother.

YANKS WIN MATCHES
Beckenham, England, June 13.—William M. Johnston and Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory, won their matches today in the Kent Lawn Tennis championships.

In the first round of the men's singles, Johnston's opponent defaulted and in the second round he defeated G. K. Thomas, 6-0, 6-1. Mrs. Mallory won from Miss S. K. Johnston, 6-0, 6-0 in the fourth round in the women's singles.

Miss Eleanor Goss, American, was defeated by Miss Elizabeth Ryan, formerly of California, 7-5, 6-1, in the third round.

Lad Accidentally Shot By Companion

Aberdeen, June 13.—The condition of Raymond Sheridan, the boy from Oakes, N. D., who was accidentally shot in the abdomen by another lad of his own age, Thursday, is reported to be unchanged. The boy was hit by a bullet when his companions began playing with a 22 rifle which the two boys found in Raymond's father's garage. The bullet caused a serious wound, having splintered a rib and cut a portion of the liver in its path. The boy is expected to live.

just escaped the fate of failure by them one stroke. One of this trio was Walter Hagen, present titleholder, who squeezed into the tie for last place with 159 strokes only by courageous and successful playing, when all seemed lost. Masterful play on the last nine holes qualified him.

The other Americans who scored 159 were Leo Diegel, of Washington, and Frank W. Clarke, of Asherville, N. C.

DUNDEE WINS
Milwaukee, Wis., June 13.—Johnny Dundee of New York, through his aggressiveness, was given a newspaper shade decision over Richie Mitchell, local lightweight, in a ten round no-decision boxing bout which went the limit. Each boxer shook the other on several occasions, though there were no knock downs and both boys finished practically without a blemish.

Chicago, June 13.—Although the wheat market here showed something of an upturn in price today at the outset a decline soon took place. The initial strength was due to an unexpected advance in Liverpool quotations.

Buying here, however, lacked volume and with harvest condition's improved by better weather the market underwent a moderate set back. Opening prices which varied from unchanged figures to 3 cents higher with July $1.10 to $1.10 1/2 and September $1.09 1/2 to $1.09 3/4 was followed by a sag all around to well below yesterday's finish.

Bullish Reports
Bullish reports about Kansas crops and about prospects for wheat growth in price led to a late upturn in the wheat market today. Prices closed firm, 1-8 to 1 cent net higher with July $1.11 1/4 to $1.11 3/8 and September $1.09 1/4 to $1.09 3/8.

State Convention Of Elks Announced

Fargo, June 13.—The annual state convention of North Dakota Elks and the annual home coming to Devils Lake lodge No. 1216, B. P. O. E., will be held at Devils Lake June 19 and 20. Sessions of the state convention will be held at the Elks Home, opening at 10 a. m. on Tuesday, June 19.

Following the address of welcome by the state president, B. J. Atkinson of Minot lodge No. 1089, the business session of the association will be held. The afternoon session at 2 p. m. will be followed by a banquet at 6 for all delegates and past exalted rulers. The final event on the program of entertainment is an auto drive to Lakewood park at 7:30 p. m.

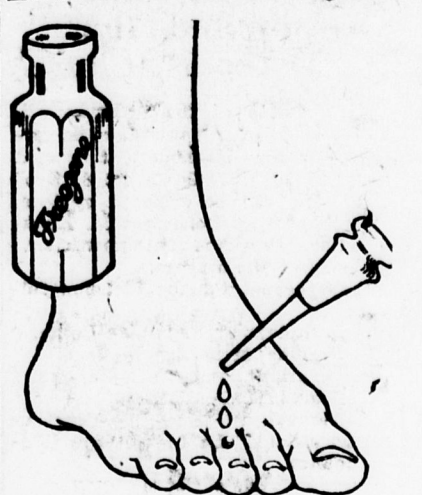

The closing sessions of the convention will be held at 10 a. m. Wednesday, June 20.

The home coming of the Devils Lake lodge will begin at 1 p. m. on Wednesday with a picnic and program of sports and other entertainment at Lakewood park. The picnic lunch will be served at 6 p. m. and a public dance at the Lakewood Park pavilion will conclude the program.

First English theater was begun in 1576; previous to that plays had been given on temporary platforms erected in the courtyards of inns.

HIGH COST OF CHEAP MONEY

Widows and Orphans Among Chief Losers From Unsound Currency.

AGGER CITES EXPERIENCE

Speculators Rather Than Investors and Producers Win From Currency Fall.

The losses and costs borne by the government and the people of the United States from unsound money experiments, from colonial times down, doubtless total more than our staggering World War appropriations, it is declared by E. Agger, an authority on economics, in the Journal of the American Bankers' Association. "Cheap money," he says, "is very costly, since financial speculation and business disaster have invariably followed in the wake of unsound currency. His cited historical experience showing that widows and orphans were among the chief sufferers.

"New generations of adults, like children, have to learn over and over again that, when playing with fire, one runs the risk of being burned," Mr. Agger says. "Indulging currency heresies constitutes such an adult playing-with-fire. A glance over our own historical experience would demonstrate this to the most ardent 'easy money' advocate, but such advocates are usually those to whom history is 'buck'.

Soft Money Advocates Seek Profit
"Unfortunately those who are willing to kindle the kind of conflagration involved in 'soft-money' experimentation are not the only ones hurt. Indeed, they may exert an advantage for themselves. But the record is too clear concerning the mass of people. Heavy losses, injustice, disorganized production and numerous other evils are inevitable.

Unsound money projects impose heavy costs on the government itself. The first effect of cheap money is to raise prices. Mounting prices mean that, to meet its needs, the government must appropriate always larger sums. Again, dallying with unsound money weakens the government's credit. Prospective bond buyers become hesitant when currency depreciation is threatened, because there is danger of agitation toward the payment of government obligations in the cheaper money rather than in specie. Any such weakening of government credit means lower prices received for bonds, consequently greater burdens on the Treasury. Assuming that, in the end, sound principles triumph, the indulgence of the unsound currency days leaves further costs to be met. If paper money has been issued it must be redeemed. If a government be unwilling to stoop to repudiation it must raise much more in taxes to pay for the paper money than it received at the time of issue." The total effect of paper issues in increasing the cost of the Civil War is estimated at about $500,000,000, Mr. Agger says, continuing:

"Much more serious than the costs of unsound currency to the government are the heavy direct and indirect costs imposed upon the people. Our productive system is controlled through prices, and the upset of prices, caused by a depreciating currency, interferes with the proper harmonizing of the different lines of production. Price changes are not instantaneous or uniformly effective throughout the whole system. The result of an inflationary movement is a stimulation of speculation and over-investment in some lines, with inadequate development in other lines. The period of speculation seems a period of prosperity, but how false and unsound is such prosperity is disclosed in the stress and agony of the inevitable period of liquidation which, Nemesis-like, follows on the heels of the boom."

Wealth Unfairly Re-distributed
Mr. Agger then describes "the distressing effects of an unsound money on the distribution of wealth among classes and individuals. Cheapening money through inflationary expedients is a gigantic fraud upon the creditor classes as against debtors. All those dependent on fixed incomes, or receiving specified sums in terms of money, are penalized when the purchasing power of money is depressed. In like manner the stockholder profits at the expense of the bondholder—a fact which implies a reward to the more speculatively inclined at the expense of the conservative."

Advancing prices cause discontent and give rise to agitation and unrest among those whose incomes cannot promptly be adjusted to meet higher living costs. Strikes are fomented and production curtailed. Everybody shares in these burdens. Lack of stability in money also undermines and weakens habits of thrift. A corrosion of the moral integrity of the people is inevitable. Dishonesty is stimulated and a desire to gain by speculation rather than earn a livelihood by productive and useful labor causes a marked deterioration in popular habits and character."

SOME HARD FACTS ABOUT SOFT MONEY

By JOHN OAKWOOD

When a farmer takes his product to market and sells it for say, a dollar a bushel, he is dependent upon the honesty of two measures—the dollar and the bushel.

The other day a crossroads storekeeper got sent to jail for manipulating a trick bushel basket with a false bottom that would slide up and down in a way that was grand, gloomy and mysterious. When using it to measure stuff he bought from a farmer, he'd secretly shove the bottom down until it held at least a bushel and a quarter, but he would only credit him with a bushel. The buying power of the farmer's product was thereby depreciated by about twenty per cent.

Finally the farmers themselves got wise to the fact that the only way they could get what was coming to them was to enforce a reliable standard of measurement. So they put a good stiff jail penalty on using a fake measure, laid for that storekeeper with the trick basket and sent him to prison.

Politicians in Europe have been manipulating the other measure—the money measure—in much the same way. Some of them in America want to tamper likewise with the dollar. Here is about the way it would work out. Suppose, when the farmer brought his product to market, the basket measure was honest enough and he got a dollar bill for each bushel. He'd take his dollars home and save them. Perhaps he planned to buy some land, and he figured that in a year or so he could make it.

But meanwhile the politicians start to manipulate the base of the currency. They would change it from the gold standard to a fiat money plan—from a gold guarantee to the mere say-so of the government that a piece of paper was worth a dollar. The farmer wouldn't be watching the money politicians. He would be too busy raising things. At the end of the year he has his thousand dollars. He takes them to the landowner and says, "I'll buy your land now—here's a thousand dollars."

But the landowner would say, "That is paper money—my land is worth one thousand dollars gold—the government has printed so much paper money folks haven't much confidence in it. But I am willing to take a chance if you will give me a dollar and a quarter in paper money for each gold dollar's value of my land—in other words, I'll give you my land for $1,250 paper."

Soft money would be only another way for the money politicians to hand the farmer the same dirty deal as the basket manipulator. In the first case the farmer got a knowingly fake bushel and a quarter of his product, and in the second case he would have to give a dollar and a quarter of his money, for a dollar's value in return.

In Germany they have carried the manipulation of the mark so far that it seems hardly believable, but if they did the same thing to the dollar, it would take over ten million in paper money to buy that land. The primary producer can raise his prices, but not fast enough to equalize this drop in the gold value of unsound money. That is where the catch comes in.

Assuming that, in the end, sound principles triumph, the indulgences of the unsound currency days leave further costs to be met. If paper money has been issued it must be redeemed. If a government be unwilling to stoop to repudiation it must raise much more in taxes to pay for the paper money than it received at the time of issue.

The total effect of paper issues in increasing the cost of the Civil War is estimated at about $600,000,000, Mr. Agger says, continuing:

"Much more serious than the costs of unsound currency to the government are the heavy direct and indirect costs imposed upon the people. Our productive system is controlled through prices, and the upset of prices, caused by a depreciating currency, interferes with the proper harmonizing of the different lines of production. Price changes are not instantaneously or uniformly effected throughout the whole system. The result of an inflationary movement is a stimulation of speculation and over-investment in some lines, with inadequate development in other lines. The period of speculation seems a period of prosperity, but how false and unsound is such prosperity is disclosed in the stress and agony of the inevitable period of liquidation which, Nemesis-like, follows on the heels of the boom."

Wealth Unfairly Redistributed Mr. Agger then describes "the distressing effects of an unsound money on the distribution of wealth among classes and individuals. Cheapening money through inflationary expedients is a gigantic fraud upon the creditor classes as against debtors. All those dependent on fixed incomes, or receiving specified sums in terms of money, are penalized when the purchasing power of money is depressed. In like manner the stockholder profits at the expense of the bondholder—a fact which implies a reward to the more speculatively inclined at the expense of the conservative.

"Advancing prices cause discontent and give rise to agitation and unrest among those whose incomes cannot promptly be adjusted to meet higher living costs. Strikes are fomented and production curtailed. Everybody shares in these burdens. Lack of stability in money also undermines and weakens habits of thrift. A corrosion of the moral integrity of the people is inevitable. Dishonesty is stimulated and a desire to gain by speculation rather than earn a livelihood by productive and useful labor causes a marked deterioration in popular habits and character."

But the landowner would say, "That is paper money—my land is worth one thousand dollars gold—the government has printed so much paper money folks haven't much confidence in it. But I am willing to take a chance if you will give me a dollar and a quarter in paper money for each gold dollar's value of my land—in other words, I'll give you my land for $1,250 paper."

Soft money would be only another way for the money-politicians to hand the farmer the same dirty deal as the basket manipulator. In the first case the farmer unknowingly gave a bushel and a quarter of his product, and in the second case he would have to give a dollar and a quarter of his money, for a dollar's value in return.

In Germany they have carried the manipulation of the mark so far—Well, it seems hardly believable, but if they did the same thing to the dollar, it would take over ten million in paper money to buy that land. The primary producer can raise his prices, but not fast enough to equalize this drop in the gold value of unsound money. That is where the catch comes in.

CHICAGO CUBS STRIKE HARD IN NATIONALS

Now Take the Spotlight From Brooklyn, Athletics as Sensations

YANKEES STILL SLIDE

Chicago, June 12.—Chicago's Cubs are the latest sensations of the major leagues, supplanting in interest both Brooklyn and Philadelphia in the Americans as abiding as those teams now are. The Cubs won their seventh straight victory yesterday, the fifth straight from Boston, 12 to 11.

As the game-time draws near today the Cubs are in sixth place but only three points behind Brooklyn and Cincinnati, who are tied for third. The issue is squarely up to the Cubs, who must meet the Brooklyn Robins in their own menagerie while the Reds attempt to withstand the onslaught of the Giants. Also intervening is St. Louis, which received Boston today.

Hank Gowdy made his first appearance in the New York line-up as a pinch hitter but he failed and Pittsburgh again won 4 to 2. The Giants have won and lost six on their road trip, two of three each to Chicago and Pittsburgh. Pittsburgh is only five and a half games behind New York and should decrease the margin this week. The Pirates meet Philadelphia while Cincinnati takes on the Giants. The Reds-Philadelphia game was prevented by rain. This rain along with Jimmy Johnston's infield error precipitated Brooklyn into a tie with Cincinnati. Brooklyn lost in the percentage column, the score being 5 to 4 in St. Louis' favor, while Cincinnati automatically advanced to third place.

Philadelphia is now three games from first place in the American league, evening the series with Detroit 7 to 3, while New York lost again making its ninth reversal out of the last 12 games it has played.

St. Louis definitely took the leadership of the second division from Washington by taking the odd game of their three-game series, 3 to 1, and the Browns, who open at the Yankee stadium today, have a chance to go into the first division as the Tigers again meet Philadelphia.

The Chicago White Sox, battling to get out of last place surrendered to Boston yesterday 10 to 4.

Around The Circuit

Jamestown reports claim that Kester and his Minot bunch were reluctant to play ball in the fifth inning Monday night, when there was a slight fall of rain with Jamestown ahead. After umpire Saffo called two balls, however, the Magicians went on the field.

John Homan is a dyed-in-the-wool fan, and has good reason for rooting for Bismarck—also for always taking the third base side of the diamond. Some years ago John played third base for the Bismarck nine, in the days when only a half-mit was used and it wasn't good form to protect the fans at all. The team

TOMMY TURNS TO THE BIG FELLOWS

BY BOB DORMAN
NBA Service Writer

Shelby, Mont., June 12.—Jumping into New York right off the bat gave Gibbons a big thrill.

He did a lot of gazing at the tall buildings before he got into the ring but it evidently didn't hurt his fighting any.

His first opponent in Gotham was Tommy Nelson. Gibbons "knocked him out in one round."

That was December 7, 1912. Tommy got $150 for his win.

Little did he dream then that some day he would return to New York to fight for some of his biggest purses.

Eddy Reddy First Boss
His next fight was April 22, 1913, with Tommy Bergin. Gibbons had sealed down from 164 pounds to 155 pounds since his bout with Nelson. The fight was his on points after 10 rounds.

Eddy Reddy, Jack's brother, was Tommy Gibbons' first manager. But Brother Mike always was with him and was in his corner.

Then came a scrap with Al Worpin in Hudson, Wis. The place, seat, about 1900. They poked it close to 4000. The sides were so jammed Tommy literally had to walk over the crowd's shoulders to get into the ring.

He scored a knockout in four rounds. His prize money totaled $400.

After this Tommy turned his attention to the big fellows.

Breaks Mike's Jaw
On Feb. 9, 1914, he went into the ring with George (Knockout) Brown. Brown was going good then. But Gibbons won in 10 rounds. That was his hardest and first real fight.

A few days later he took on Billy Mike. Again he won in 10 rounds. And he broke Mike's jaw.

Brown wanted to fight him again. They were matched to go at Madison.

year the Bismarck nine had when John played was when Aberdeen beat St. Paul and then Bismarck trimmed Aberdeen two games.

The Bismarck players got their choice of bats today before getting ready to leave for Carrington. A dozen new swat-sticks were received. They were dumped out and the players given the opportunity to try 'em all out and select what they wanted.

Wingfield, now with Jamestown, is being given work in new positions. He played third one day, second the next. He usually plays either leading the bat or on first base.

Manager Shanley of the Bismarck club believes he will win 75 per cent of his games with the club he's got right now, if the boys go right.

New Rockford-Carrington is getting a pitcher from the Toledo American Association team in its bolstering up efforts; also one from Seattle.

LEAGUE HEAD IS SATISFIED

Sees Hot Race in Near Future—Crowd Good, He Says

The North Dakota State League race will be a hot one before long. That's the tip of President Logan Powell of Jamestown, who was in Bismarck yesterday.

Jamestown is strengthening its team. In addition to a new catcher and Wingfield the team is getting two new pitchers for tryouts.

New Rockford-Carrington is getting a pitcher from Seattle to replace Running, who was released after the Bismarck series. It is understood Pickering will get one or two other new men.

Bismarck also probably will have one or two new additions. All the clubs are out for Minot.

The early season crowds have been good, President Powell said. He is satisfied that as the season warms up interest will increase and all the clubs will finish well financially.

Before leaving President Powell ordered Umpire Flevo to New Rockford to umpire the Bismarck-Twins series there.

Wia. "Knockout" got a worse beating than the first time.

Then Tommy fought Buck Crouse on May 22. He swears he'll never forget that fight.

Back Sage Had Wallop
"Back hit me the hardest I've ever been socked," he testifies. "I hung on in the second round. Mike thought I was going to get knocked out. It seemed to hurt him more than it did me when I got hit hard. I guess brothers are all like that."

"I had followed Mike's instructions up to this time. After I got pasted so hard, I asked him to let me fight my own style. He said, 'Go to it.'"

"Knocked Crouse down five or six times in the third round. In the fourth I knocked him out."

On Thanksgiving Day, Tommy went back to New York to fight Billy Glover at Gibson's club. It took him six rounds to put Billy to sleep.

Kearns Guessed Wrong
Tommy admits he was just a rough fighter then and didn't know just why he did things.

Feb. 2, 1915, he was matched with one of Jack Kearns' fighters, Billy Murray. Kearns boasted Tommy Gibbons was going to get flattened up properly. A lot of folks believed him.

Murray struck out a back hand blow, cutting Gibbons' lip open. That was the first mark Tommy ever received in the ring. Mike was worried when he started to bleed so much. But Tommy told him it wasn't bad and kept right on going.

Kearns' fighter didn't knock him out. Ten rounds and Tommy had convinced folks he had outpointed Murray.

On July 12, he tackled Billy Mike again and outpointed him. It was frightfully hot and neither put up such a good fight.

Tommy had heard a lot about Harry Greb. Harry wanted to meet Mike's brother. He got the chance to try it Nov. 12.

But Greb had a surprise coming to him—from Mike's brother.

YANKEE GOLF STARS BEATEN

Troon, Scotland, June 12.—When the roll is called on the first tee of the old Troon course Thursday for the starting of the British open championships four American golfers who came to Scotland to compete in that tournament will be missing. The unhappy four are Gene Sarazen, American open champion; Jim Barnes, who formerly held that title; T. D. Armour of New York; and Charles Hoffer, of Philadelphia.

These players failed to play the game necessary to get into the list of the 36 holes were good enough, but Sarazen and Barnes each took 160, Hoffer was two over the limit and Armour had three too many.

Six Americans qualified. Three of them escaped the fate of failure by just one stroke. One of this trio was Walter Hagen, present titleholder, who squeezed into the tie for last place with 159 strokes only by courageous and successful playing, when all seemed lost. Masterful play on the last nine holes qualified him.

The other Americans who scored 159 were Leo Diegel, of Washington, and Frank W. Clarke, of Asheville, N. C.

DUNDEE WINS

Minneapolis, Wis., June 12.—Johnny Dundee of New York, through his aggressiveness, was given a newspaper shade decision over Richie Mitchell, local lightweight, in a ten round no-decision boxing bout which went the limit. Each boxer shook the other on several occasions, though there were no knock downs and both boys finished practically without a blemish.

YANKS WIN MATCHES

Reckonham, England, June 12.—William M. Johnston and Mrs. Mollie Bjornstad, Mallory, won their matches today in the Kent Lawn Tennis championships.

In the first round of the men's singles, Johnston's opponent defaulted and in the second round he defeated G. K. Thomas, 6-0, 6-1. Mrs. Mallory won from Miss S. K. Johnston, 6-0, 6-0 in the fourth round in the women's singles.

Miss Eleanor Goss, American, was defeated by Miss Elizabeth Ryan, formerly of California, 7-5, 6-1, in the third round.

Lad Accidentally Shot By Companion

Aberdeen, June 12.—The condition of Raymond Sheridan, the boy from Oakes, N. D., who was accidentally shot in the abdomen by another lad of his own age, Thursday, is reported to be unchanged. The boy was hit by a bullet when his companions began playing with a 22 rifle which the two boys found in Raymond's father's garage. The bullet caused a serious wound, having splintered a rib and cut a portion of the liver in its path. The boy is expected to live.

MARKET IS LACKING TONE

Price Upturns in Liverpool Fail to Bring Advances

Chicago, June 12.—Although the wheat market here showed something of an upturn in price today at the outset a decline soon took place. The initial strength was due to an unexpected advance in Liverpool quotations. Buying here, however, lacked volume and with harvest condition's improved by better weather the market underwent a moderate set back. Opening prices which varied from unchanged figures to 3 cents higher with July $1.10 1/2 to $1.10 3/4 and September $1.09 1/4 to $1.09 3/4 followed by a sag all around to well below yesterday's finish.

Bullish Reports

Bullish reports about Kansas crops and about prospects for wheat growth in price led to a life upturn in the wheat market today. Prices closed firm, 1-5 to 1 cent net higher with July $1.11 1/4 to 1.11 3/4 and September $1.09 1/4 to $1.09 3/4.

Frenchmen Disappointed Because They Don't Get Liquor

New York, June 13.—Nearly half of the crew of the French line steamer France served notice today that they would refuse to make another trip to America on her unless arrangements were made so that they could get the two litres daily ration of wine provided by French law. The captain declared the France would return on schedule if she had to recruit a new crew from the French merchant marine college.

TO MAKE TREATIES

Washington, June 13.—Informal negotiations initiated by the state department with various maritime powers contemplate a solution of the reciprocal basis of the ship liquor controversy and of the rum smuggling problem through exercise of the treaty-making powers of the government.

American officials, it was revealed today, see in this method an opportunity to eliminate inconveniences to foreign ships within the three-mile limit due to enforcement regulations while at the same time the hovering fleet of rum smugglers off the American coast may be broken up through extension by treaty agreement of the right of search for this specific purpose to the 12-mile limit.

RAW SUGAR IN DECLINE

New York, June 13.—Disappointment over the demand for refined sugar, traders in the markets for raw sugar futures became demoralized today and sold heavily, breaking prices 60 to 67 points from yesterday's close. Rallies of 25 to 30 points followed on recovery but the undertone after midday was still nervous and unsettled. Fine granulated was quoted from $9.50 to $9.90 by various refiners but these prices were entirely nominal.

NATION REPRESENTED AT FINANCE CAPITAL

By FRANCIS H. Sisson

Chairman Public Relations Commission, American Bankers Association

F. H. Sisson

Financial New York is peculiarly representative of the whole nation. All parts of the country, the small towns as well as the big cities, have supplied the greater part of the man power and brain power enabling it to function as the nation's financial capital.

A recent investigation as to the origin of one hundred leading executives in the New York financial district, showed that no less than sixty per cent were born outside New York State, that no less than twenty-eight per cent were born in towns of 5,000 or less, and only twenty per cent were born in New York City.

The birthplaces of these men represented Pennsylvania, Ohio, Massachusetts, Connecticut, Michigan, Missouri, Illinois, Maryland, Delaware, Vermont, Mississippi, Kentucky, Tennessee, Minnesota, Iowa, Florida, Rhode Island, North Carolina, Indiana, Wisconsin, Georgia, California, Montana, West Virginia, Maine, New Jersey and the District of Columbia.

The same situation is true of the younger men, particularly in the banks. This reflects more than merely the attraction of the big city for ambitious young men. It is the result of the definite purpose of New York banking to equip itself to perform most effectively its work for all the nation.

A brief description of the mechanism of the nation's banking system will make this clear. Many of the New York banks are bankers' banks. They are great reservoirs of credit in which banks throughout the country deposit unemployed funds in New York. When crop needs in rural districts or industrial expansion in manufacturing centers increase local requirements for money these local banks call in their funds from New York and in addition may ask the big city banks for loans.

Country banks frequently deposit as security the notes of their own customers, often secured, in turn, by farm capital such as ploughs, livestock and other possessions. The fifty thousand dollar note, for instance, of a country bank in a big New York bank may have attached, as collateral security, fifty or a hundred small notes of a hundred dollars up to a thousand or more, signed by local farmers and their wives. Into one of the biggest New York banks comes in this way from the South each crop season a small note secured by a plough and a horse and a mule named "Molly"—an incident that has been aptly described as "The Mowing of Molly." It is one among many securing a large inter-bank credit.

Thus is big banking in New York brought close to the plain people of the soil—thus does it finance their humble husbandry—and thus has it felt the need of recruiting its officers from among men familiar and sympathetic with local conditions—able to visualize the needs of the people there and pass sound judgment on the credit factors involved.

It is due to the conditions thus pictured that among the officers of New York's banks will be found representatives from all parts of the nation. They are the delegates of the people at the business capital.

Wins College Oratory Contest

Jamestown, June 13.—Kenneth Wells and Theodore Roosevelt won the men's contest in oratory at Jamestown College last night.

Wells was the speaker and Roosevelt was the subject: "Theodore Roosevelt—American." They were a well matched team. The young orator has a good many of the qualities of the great Statesman and Patriot, and he was able to realize his theme and convey his deep understanding and feeling to the audience. Still his competition was strong, so strong on the part of Horace Strutz of Jamestown and Herbert Headen of Williston that they tied with him in rank and the percentages had to be used in order to reach a decision. Wells is from Minnesota but attended high school in Fargo. Headen is brother of Edna Mae Headen, who won in the oratorical contest for women, and he is himself the winner of last year's prize for the best essay in the state on Good Roads. The prize is $50.00 (part of it in the form of a medal) and is given by Judge J. A. Coffee each year.

Butler Studio will close from June 14 to June 19 on account of attending the State Christian Endeavor Convention at Dickinson.

Piles Can Be Cured Without Surgery

An instructive book has been published by Dr. A. S. McCleary, the noted rectal specialist of Kansas City. This book tells how sufferers from Piles can be quickly and easily cured without the use of knife, scissors, "hot" iron, electricity or any other cutting or burning method, without confinement to bed and no hospital bills to pay. The method has been a success for twenty-four years and in more than eight thousand cases. The book is sent postpaid free to persons afflicted with piles or other rectal troubles. Slip this item and mail it with name and address to Dr. McCleary, 1542 Parkview Sanitarium, Kansas City, Mo.

You won't "keep adding"

You know lots of men who buy a quart of oil with every five or ten gallons of gas. Trying to liven dead oil with new oil. It won't work.

The best method of lubrication is to drain your crankcase about every 800 miles and refill with

SUNOCO
THE DISTILLED OIL

Distilled oil is purer than oils compounded of "cylinder stock" and light oil. It lasts. It enables your motor to last. You'll be proud of your motor performance.

Ask your dealer or write us for booklet, "What's Happening Inside Your Motor?"
